HOUSING LIST BAN ON LAWBREAKERS

EX-OFFENDERS will be barred from applying for social housing under new plans approved by Harlow Council.

As part of the biggest shake-up of its housing policy in decades, the authority wants to exclude applicants with certain convictions – including those with injunctions or ASBOs – from joining its overstretched housing register.

Anyone with children or other members of their household who are engaged in criminal or anti-social activity will also be blocked from applying.

The council claims the move – which comes into force from September – will free up more housing for those in genuine need.

But critics, including ex-offenders charity Unlock, have branded the ban “irresponsible” and warned it could lead to dramatic increases in re-offending and homelessness.

Rod Truan, the council's portfolio holder for housing, told the Star: “It's important to make clear that this will not exclude everyone with a criminal conviction from joining the housing register. In all cases we are talking about those with recent convictions or who are engaged with ongoing criminal or anti-social behaviour.”

“Each case will be treated on its merits, although generally speaking those with outstanding ASBOs or injunctions, or those with recent convictions for domestic abuse, hate crime or other housing-related offences will be excluded.”

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

Cllr Truan said the decision had been taken following a three-month public consultation last year, which saw 86 per cent of respondents back the plan.

“We think this is a fair and just policy, and it is clearly something that reflects the wishes of Harlow residents,” he added.

But Chris Bath, executive director of Unlock, said the policy was a “short-sighted vote-winner” that would create long-term problems.

“I can appreciate that Harlow Council has a shortage of housing stock, but barring ex-offenders from joining the register is not the answer to the problem,” he said.

“One of the cornerstones of the rehabilitation process is the provision of stable accommodation. If you take that away you could ultimately see a dramatic rise in re-offending, not to mention a worrying homelessness problem.”

He added: “Take this as an example: what happens when a law-abiding couple's child falls in with the wrong crowd and ends up being hit with an

New M11 junction now a top priority

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

PLANS to ease congestion on Harlow's busy road network by building a new junction at the M11 have shifted up a gear after Essex County Council declared the scheme its "number one highways priority".

The county council, the Harlow Gateway Transport Board and Harlow Council have all given their official backing to the traffic-busting bypass proposals following a £500,000 feasibility study.

County Hall is now set to press ahead with a public consultation on the plans before making a formal approach to the Government for funding for the multi-million pound project later this year.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who has spearheaded an eight-year campaign supporting the construction of a new junction, described the county council's support as a "dramatic leap forward".

"This is fantastic news," he said. "We desperately need a new junction as Harlow is being choked to death by traffic and motorists are suffering every day."

"Once it is built it will mean 3,000 extra jobs in Harlow's Enterprise Zone, smoother traffic flows and a stronger case for regeneration in our town-centre."

He added: "I believe Harlow should be a magnet for investment and I will be urging the Government to put us at the top of the list for new transport infrastructure."

Derrick Louis, cabinet member for highways and transportation at Essex County Council, added: "This scheme will support the delivery of thousands of new jobs for the Harlow area and bring much needed improvements to the road network in and around Harlow, including the new Enterprise Zone."

"I hope that partners both locally and nationally will support the progression of this scheme."

Harlow Council pledged its support for the scheme following a vote at last Thursday's full council meeting.

Council leader Mark Wilkinson told the Star: "This is good news for the town and brings a new M11 junction a step closer."

"Reducing traffic congestion and improving the road infrastructure will help with the regeneration of Harlow which is a priority for Harlow Council."

The Valentine's Day sweethearts celebrating 60 years of marriage

VALENTINE'S Day will be extra special for one Harlow couple who are celebrating their diamond wedding anniversary today (Thursday).

Fred and Una Bard, of Perryfield, Matching Green, tied the knot 60 years ago and will be marking the milestone at a party for family and friends on Saturday.

The couple were married in St Mary Magdalene Church in Potter Street in 1953 - with their wedding costing a very reasonable £33!

Retired solicitor Fred (85) said: "It wasn't love at first sight for either of us, to be honest. We were at school together and I was in the year above so we didn't have much contact."

"It was when we both left school at 14 and started working in the same bakery in The Stow that we met properly and began courting."

"We broke up for a while and it was only by chance that we met again. I walked her home and it got very serious from there."

After training to become a solicitor, Fred landed a job at law firm Attwaters Jameson Hill - then known as Attwater & Liell - in Loughton.

"After we were married we moved from Potter Street to Loughton. But then I was asked to open the Attwaters office in Harlow in 1954 so we soon moved back."

Fred and Una have two children and three grandchildren, all of whom will be celebrating with them at the Mulberry House Hotel in High Ongar on Saturday.

Asked for the secret of their happy marriage, the couple agreed: "It's really quite simple - don't disappoint each other!"

ASBO for a relatively minor offence? It happens all the time and it will now mean that an entire household will be barred from the housing register.

"It's an unfair, irresponsible and fundamentally flawed policy that sets a dangerous precedent."

The ban is just one of several changes to the council's housing policy. Other revisions include giving adopters, foster carers and members of the armed forces with local connections greater priority, while from September all applicants must have continually lived in Harlow for at least five years before being eligible.

Single or joint applicants with more than £50,000 in savings, equity or income will also now be excluded from joining the list, which has been rebranded the Housing Needs Register to reflect the fact housing is allocated based on need rather than the length of time applicants have been waiting.

Cllr Truan added: "This review will not address the shortage of housing in Harlow but ensures that those who get housing in future are those that need it most."

"Building more housing in Harlow is a priority for the council and we are going to be looking at how we can provide more housing choices in future, but this is not something which will happen overnight."

Pensioner a target for tricksters who steal his long-service watch

THIEVES who tricked their way into the home of a pensioner by posing as water board officials stole a wristwatch presented to him by his former employers in recognition of his 40 years of service.

The tricksters called at the man's house in Moorfield, Harlow, last Monday morning (February 4), telling him they needed to check for a water leak.

While one went into the garden, the other started looking through his kitchen cupboards. After they left, the victim found drawers and cupboards in rooms upstairs had also been opened and jewellery missing.

Among the items taken were two gold chains, a diamond ring, a silver heart-shaped locket with a black and white photo of the man and his late wife, and a silver Garrett watch engraved on the back with the words 'For 40 years of service Johnson Matthey Group'.

When opportunity knocked for youth band

WERE you one of the “sons and daughters of Harlow” lucky enough to have toured Europe with the Netteswell Youth Band?

Formed in November 1967, the award-winning brass ensemble was made up of young musicians from Mark Hall and Netteswell schools, and soon built up a reputation for being one of the finest youth bands in the country.

Former cornet player and founder member Kevin Forbes got in touch with Nostalgia this week to share his memories of life on the road with the award-winning band – including recollections of a memorable trip to London in 1970 to play live on the steps of St Paul's Cathedral (pictured).

“The band complemented the already established and highly-regarded Netteswell School Band, which had been in existence for some years previously and possessed a great reputation in school and youth musical circles,” said Kevin.

“But it wasn't long before we had our own triumphs to be proud of, with early highlights including a tour of Scandinavia, appearances on TV show Opportunity Knocks and concerts in Westminster Abbey's College Garden.

“In 1970 we were even invited to take part in the City of London Festival, performing at the opening concert in the Paternoster Piazza outside St Paul's Cathedral.”

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A tour of Holland and Germany followed later the same year, while in 1971 the group recorded a 45-minute program for BBC Radio 3 before cutting their first stereo LP, titled Netteswell Brass.

Concerts in Salzburg and Vienna followed as the band hit the road again, finishing the year by making the finals of the national brass band championships.

Kevin added: “Over those first three-and-a-half years the band undertook over 60 other engagements and concerts both locally and nationally, with charities frequently benefiting from the band's activities.

“The legacy of this band of young people, coupled with a strong management of committed music teachers and supporters, has provided a brass ensemble which has continued to grow for many more years.

“Its existence and the commitment of those involved has enabled many hundreds of young people since its formation to explore the field of music, becoming professionals, teachers and amateurs creating music and funds for their communities.

“I am proud to have been one of the ‘sons and daughters of Harlow’, helping to raise the profile of the town with our music.”

Were you a link in CND's human chain of protest?

WERE you a link in the 14-mile human chain stretching across Berkshire's ‘nuclear valley’ back in 1983?

The protest organised by the Campaign For Nuclear Disarmament was one of the UK's biggest-ever anti-nuclear demonstrations, with almost 80,000 people lining the route between the Greenham Common missile base and the UK Government's nuclear warhead factory at Burghfield.

According to a Star article published on April 7, 1983 (right), more than 100 members of the Harlow branch of the CND travelled by bus to Berkshire to join the rally on April 1.

The report quotes Harlow CND organiser Mary Solomon, who told the paper: “The human chain was intended to break the nuclear chain by showing our opposition to Government subservience to the US military idea of relying totally on nuclear weapons for defence. To us, this is nuclear valley.”

The event was the climax of a week of anti-nuclear activities across England in the run-up to Easter. Hailed as a huge success by the CND, Government defence minister Michael Heseltine branded the demonstrators “misguided and naïve”.

He wasn't the only one to condemn the protest, with pro-nuclear group The Coalition for Peace Through Security flying a plane overhead trailing a banner reading ‘CND – Kremlin's April Fools’.

Ditching free car parking 'a death knell for traders'

THE first budget of Harlow Council's ruling Labour administration will be a disaster for the town's struggling shops and businesses, opposition councillors have warned.

The spending plans were approved at a fiery council meeting on Thursday evening, during which the Conservatives slammed the authority's decision to scrap free parking at neighbourhood shopping hatches and claimed some hard-pressed traders would be pushed into bankruptcy as a result.

Proposing an alternative budget in which council tax would be frozen, free parking retained and councillors' allowances reduced, Tory group leader Andrew Johnson said: "I'm shocked by what Labour have put before us tonight."

"Not two years ago they were railing against us for planning to withdraw the free first hour at local car parks. It wasn't true because, after consulting with the business community, we were clearly told that if we did that it would be the death knell for shopping centres in The Stow, Bush Fair and Old Harlow. We listened and we kept that hour free.

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

"Now Labour are effectively saying they don't care about business in this town, they don't care about the small business owners, they're going to put 20p on [parking] because it's easier for them and takes the hard decisions out of their grasp."

"I'm not willing to accept that and that's why our alternative budget doesn't include that charge."

But Labour councillor Mike Danvers, portfolio holder for resources, said the authority had to find money from somewhere after seeing its finances "crippled" by Government funding cuts.

"At the end of the day this authority has had to make some harsh choices, choices that have been forced upon it by a Tory-led Government," he said.

"Would the opposition rather see service cutbacks and people out of work or the introduction of a nominal 20p fee for an hour's parking?"

A further row erupted after Conservative councillors pounced on figures suggesting the total annual spend on members' allowances would increase by £1,420 – a figure Labour insisted had been mistakenly included in the budget documentation due to an "accounting error".

The administration also came under fire for turning down the Government's offer of a Council Tax Freeze Grant by raising its share of the bill by 1.5 per cent, while Tories argued that plans to abandon free bulky waste collections would increase the problem of flytipping.

But council leader Mark Wilkinson said he was proud of his administration's first budget. "This has been set against a backdrop of ruthless cuts forced upon us by the Tory-led coalition government," he told the meeting.

"To put this into perspective, our grant has been cut by 27 per cent over the last two years, with a forecast of another 24 per cent over the next two years. Even so, our administration has worked tirelessly with officers to achieve our targets whilst protecting as many services as possible."

"Of course we've had to raise some charges which will be unsavoury for some people but they are unfortunately necessary to protect our most valued services. It is a balanced and effective budget that will protect services like The Playhouse and Pets Corner while making the huge savings we have been forced to confront."

ANDREW JOHNSON: "Labour are effectively saying they don't care about business in this town"

Teen assaulted near leisure centre

A TEENAGER was left nursing a bloodied nose, cuts and bruises after being assaulted outside Harlow Leisurezone on Friday morning.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the attack on the 18-year-old victim by three youths between 10am-10.45am.

All three assailants are white. One is described as 16-20 years old, 5ft 7ins tall and of slender but muscular build. He was wearing a black body warmer and a blue jumper with dark blue stripes on the arm.

The second suspect is 16-20, 5ft 8ins tall, of chubby build and was wearing blue jeans while the third is aged 11-15, 5ft 4ins tall and had tanned skin. He was wearing a grey hat and a blue jumper with orange writing on it.

PC James Mulholland, of Harlow police, said: "This incident occurred in broad daylight within a short time frame in a busy area. If anyone saw anything please contact me."

Anyone with information can contact PC Mulholland on the 101 non-emergency number.

What the traders say . . .

The Stow

David Burns
(DBS Computers)

"Shops are empty now and this parking charge will just kill off the small number of customers I have left. It will be so detrimental to me and the other local shops."

Claire Harrison
(Top Form)

"I'm very disappointed but not surprised. When we were told about the parking charges we were all sceptical about the promise the council gave us of keeping the first hour free."

Andy Andreas
(The Stow Butchers)

"To be honest we're a fairly new shop so I don't really know how it will affect my customers, but I know it won't be good."

Bush Fair

Tony Ahmet
(Bush Fair Laundrette)

"This new car parking charge is going to affect business. It's the worst thing the council could do - to restrict parking behind the shops and have the first hour charged. It's terrible and in my opinion I don't think the council cares enough about local business."

Kate Ramsay
(Clubb Cards)

"I wasn't consulted about this and as a local business I think it's disgusting. I have been here since 1971; it's a family business and my lease is up soon. I'll have to seriously reconsider if I can, or want, to stay open now that I know about this."

Old Harlow

Christine Smith
(Cutting Edge)

"As soon as they put in charges more people will be more likely to go to Tesco or Sainsbury's rather than a local smaller shop where you have to pay to park."

Laura Rimmer
(Co-operative Food)

"It's not going to be a huge amount with the 20p for the first hour rather than it being free, but I think it will still have an effect."

Hayley Reynolds
(Fine)

"This new charge is going to kill off all local businesses. No-one told me about this; the council say they try to support local businesses but they don't at all. This is proof of that."

Pedal pals prepare for Brighton bike challenge

A GRAPHIC designer from Harlow is preparing to take part in a night-time cycle ride from London to Brighton.

Lloyd Osagie (29), the older brother of Harlow's Olympic athlete Andrew, will be cycling the 60-mile route with pal Alex Sweeting (23) in July.

The pair are hoping to raise around £300 for the British Heart Foundation in memory of their friend James Redington, who died suddenly in 2007.

Lloyd, of Northbrooks, said: "I'd known James since I was about 15. His death came as a tremendous shock to everyone who knew him.

"James was an amazing person, friend, brother and son. I feel very lucky to have known him to the degree that I did and will never forget the advice, comfort and direction he gave me."

James, who was known as 'Superman' to his close friends, was struck down by Wolff-Parkinson-White syndrome, a rare heart condition that can trigger cardiac arrest through a sudden spike in heart rate.

"In memory of James we'll be honouring him by wearing Superman memorabilia, with personalised Superman logos on our cycle jerseys," said Lloyd. A keen cyclist who started riding without stabilisers from the age of two, Lloyd began training for the ride last summer.

"My training currently consists of riding to work three or four times a week and then completing a minimum of 15 miles at the weekend.

"Last month I was able to rack up 240 miles, which I was very pleased with. I'll gradually build up my distance so that by July I'm ready."

He added: "Right now it seems like it's going to take an age to complete and I'm not looking forward to the hills as we approach Brighton.

"From the smirk I got from Alex when I asked him about them, I know they're going to be a challenge. But with training and the desire to complete the event in a respectable time, I'm sure I'll overcome them."

Lottery benefactors could win an award

HARLOW charities and worthy causes received more than £575,000 of National Lottery funding last year – and 2013 could bring even greater benefits.

Donations included £5,000 to Tarlings Social Club to run weekly exercise classes for local residents and members of a sheltered housing scheme, while Harlow Town Cricket Club received a £50,000 donation to refurbish the Frank Pavese pavilion.

Now the Lottery is seeking nominations for its annual awards ceremony, which gives charitable and voluntary groups who have benefited from funding in the past the chance to win national recognition for their work in the community.

TV star John Barrowman, presenter of last year's awards show, said: "The National Lottery raises £30m a week for good causes and the awards are a great way of celebrating the life-changing difference these projects make to communities.

"National Lottery players in Harlow should be proud of the difference they are making to people in the area." Nominations can be made at www.lotterygoodcauses.org.uk/awards. The deadline is March 19.

Car park charges net charity £400

SHOPPERS who paid to leave their vehicles in the Harlow College car park last Saturday (February 2) raised more than £400 for regional disabled charity Accuro.

The organisation operates across West Essex, offering help and support to people of all ages with a disability and providing short breaks for their families and carers.

Events co-ordinator Ruth Davies said: "We would like to thank everyone who helped support the wonderful work that Accuro does by parking at Harlow College.

"We hugely appreciate the generous donations and the time given by all our volunteers to help out."

St Clare lottery

THE winner of the £1,000 prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, February 8 is ticket holder 187716, who lives in Epping. The second prize of £100 goes to the holder of ticket number 642951, who lives in Harlow.

Football game to kickstart brothers' fundraising efforts

TWO brothers taking on the challenge of the London Marathon for the first time have organised a football match to boost their fundraising total.

Richard and Alan Kingston will be lining up against a Spurs Legends XI next Sunday (February 24) as part of their efforts to raise money for Children's Cancer UK. The match will kick off at 2pm at the Link Social Club in Parsloe Road and will feature former White Hart Lane favourites including Mark Falco, Tony Galvin, Justin Edinburgh and Stuart Nethercott.

Painter and decorator Richard (30) said: "I want to raise about £1,500 but I realised I couldn't reach my target with donations from just family and friends, so I came up with the idea of a charity football match. "A lot of my final total depends on how successful this event is so I'm hoping we get a good turnout."

Richard said training for the marathon was going well, despite a late start. "I only found out about three weeks ago that I was going to be able to take part," he explained. "Initially there weren't enough spaces for me so I haven't been training for long.

"My regime at the

moment consists of a lot of running, football and squash. I've also done a half marathon which went well; I completed it in just under two hours." Tickets for next

Sunday's game cost £5 for adults, £3 for children and £12 for a family of four. For information or to make a donation, visit <http://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/richardkingston>.

Living Wage crusade is a cheap political stunt

SIR, How so typically Labour. Robert Halfon is doing his utmost to protect Harlow's most disadvantaged and all Charlie Cochrane can do is whinge from the sidelines ("Low earners will pay price of benefit cuts", February 7).

The re-introduction of the 10p tax rate would help an awful lot of Harlow residents. Labour thought it was a good idea until Gordon Brown did the dirty on hardworking people. It cost him and Labour the Crewe and Nantwich by-election, if I recall.

What really annoys me is that Labour are now peddling the Living Wage as a way of pretending they care about ordinary people. As far as Harlow Council is concerned it affects two employees. How Labour must be rejoicing at so cheap a political stunt.

Mr Cochrane can indulge in class warfare as much as he likes, but those of us who really care about our community will happily back the best MP Harlow has ever had in getting the best deal for local residents.

Cllr Guy Mitchinson (Conservative)
Joyners Field, Harlow

Making top earners pay more is not the answer

SIR, Charles Cochrane raises some interesting points in his letter

Yes, reintroducing the 10p tax band would be expensive and, yes, it would affect everyone, but proportionately the impact of this on those on lower incomes would be far higher.

As for reducing the top rate of tax, the figures are there for everyone to see. When Labour raised the tax, income actually fell as many people moved their capital, income and residency overseas. It is better to have 45 per cent of something than 50 per cent of nothing. Finally, Harlow's Labour council is paying its workers a Living Wage which, according to Mr Cochrane, will make a real difference. I am sure it will for both of them as it involves just two employees. Big difference!

Michael Hardware
Great Brays, Harlow

Restoring a 10p tax rate would help the poorest

SIR, In his letter last week, I believe that Charles Cochrane's approach was fundamentally wrong.

Look at the facts. Conservatives in government are cutting taxes for 35,754 people in the Harlow constituency in April this year. That is half of our town. Some 1,666 Harlow workers will be lifted out of income tax altogether. The personal allowance will rise by a further £235 in April, taking it to £9,440.

This is an income tax cut for Harlow workers of £9.5m altogether. That is £9.5m more staying in Harlow, being spent in our local shops rather than taken away by HMRC to spend elsewhere. The low paid will benefit the most as a share of income.

In addition, Harlow families have been helped by a three-year council tax freeze and a cut in fuel duty. Harlow welfare claimants will also see their benefits rise in cash terms by one per cent a year.

The only dark cloud on the horizon is the Labour Party, which has voted to increase council tax this year.

My CutTaxTo10p.com campaign is saying let's restore the 10p starter rate of income tax. Let's cut taxes for a living wage. Lots of people of all parties support this. More than 500 local residents have signed the petition and it has also won praise from the Labour-supporting New Statesman and Daily Mirror.

Whilst it is true that the policy costs £6bn, this is money that would be raised from higher revenues from wealthy people based on more income coming in from the 45p rate. This has been confirmed by the independent think-tank the Institute For Fiscal Studies.

Mr Cochrane is right that cuts in income tax help everyone. However, a restored 10p rate would help the poorest the most as a share of income.

Despite the propaganda in certain quarters, most people remember that for 13 years under Labour the highest tax rate was 40p. From this April it will be 45p. So the coalition is taxing the rich more than for most of Labour's period in office.

Finally, whilst I welcome Harlow Council promising to pay the Living Wage, this is paid for through people's taxes and only applies to a small handful of lucky individuals in the local authority. If Mr Cochrane is seriously opposed to my proposal, what would he do instead to help ordinary families in the private sector and the wider public sector? Benefits are rising slowly, but the country is bankrupt and cannot afford even higher rises.

When Gordon Brown scrapped the 10p rate in 2008 he hit every single Harlow worker with higher taxes. My campaign is asking why can't we change that and allow Harlow people to keep £256 more of their own wages every month? I hope Mr Cochrane will support it.

Robert Halfon MP

So has the council been underpaying its workers?

SIR, I read with amazement that our Labour council, after running the town for the best part of 65 years, are now holding their hands up and saying that they have been underpaying their workers.

All of a sudden they have a conscience and are now going to pay a living wage. Does this mean that those who have retired and are now receiving a pension will have this amended and will be able to claim for being underpaid?

Yes people should be paid a fair wage for a fair day's work, but to now come out and admit that they have been guilty, by implication, of underpaying their workers for all these years beggars belief.

Charles Jackson
Rectory Wood, Harlow

Today's fight is different from that of 30 years ago

SIR, Jim Rogers' letter carried an interesting assessment of our Labour-controlled council ("Our current Labour councillors seem to have lost will to fight," February 7). I fully respect former councillors but don't accept that current councillor have lost any energy or commitment to our community.

Labour has taken control for the first time in 10 years and so nearly all councillors have never had experience of being in charge. Many are new to politics and they have had a steep learning curve.

The town is facing many challenges, with direct cuts to grants and a Government which wants to destroy our communities. Tough and painful choices have had to be made.

We believe we still have many good news stories to share. This council will build for the first time in 30 years new council houses. It is now a Living Wage council and wants to extend this into the wider community. It has given a commitment to council tenants about lifelong tenancy. It has reconnected with the development of a number of housing developments in Clifton Hatch and Prentice Place. It supports residents in the debate over Gilden Way. It has secured £1.8m in lottery funding to support and develop the Town Park. It is pressing for new jobs for local people.

We accept we won't get everything right and fully accept that some people may not always agree with the decisions. However, we're talking and listening to ensure we make the right decisions for the right reasons at the right time.

Jim knows how hard it is to be a councillor. Today, local government is different to his time 30 years ago. We can and should learn from history but we can't go back and live in history.

What unites us is our deep commitment to Harlow as a whole community, so the fight goes on to maintain and improve the town to ensure everyone gets the full benefit of living in, working in and enjoying the town.

I'm proud to be a local councillor and I'm proud to sit alongside other Labour councillors who do stand up and who do fight for our values. We haven't lost our spirit or our fight, we're just living in a different and difficult time.

Cllr Tony Durcan (Labour)
Rundells, Harlow

This is not the time for an increase in allowances

SIR, At Thursday night's budget meeting the Conservative group on Harlow Council spotted the Labour administration was attempting to make a rise in the amount of cash available for councillors' allowances.

Naturally we moved an amendment to remove this item. After all, the last thing hard-pressed Harlow taxpayers need to see at the moment is their taxes going up to pay councillors more.

Labour immediately said they were not planning on raising allowances at all, which is easy to do when you have been caught trying to do it.

Then Labour councillor Mike Danvers asked the head of finance to confirm the Labour group had never intended to raise allowances. The head of finance was unable to do this!

Finally Labour said that it was a technical issue and they were not going to actually use the money, which doesn't make sense. Why collect tax you are not going to use?

I suspect we will see a lot of smoke and mirror arguments about this in coming weeks but the facts speak for themselves.

Sadly it looked like every single Labour councillor voted for this rise. I am pleased to say that every Conservative councillor voted against it.

Cllr Edward Johnson (Conservative)
Old Orchard, Harlow

The service I received was first class

SIR, I have read in the Star the complaints about the ambulance service and I have no doubt these things have happened, but I would like to commend the service that I had to call on last month.

I had been ill for a few days and on the third day I asked my wife to call someone. She called NHS Direct and, after taking my symptoms, they sent a paramedic who arrived in 10 minutes.

I was quickly told that I needed to go to hospital and an ambulance arrived within 10 minutes of the paramedics. After another 10 minutes I was on my way to Princess Alexandra Hospital, where I was diagnosed with a strangulated bowel caused by a triple hernia.

I had to have a operation that day and spent three days in hospital. The service was first class and the complete opposite to what other people have been saying. I've no doubt there are problems but for me it was spot on.

Steve Gay

Stand up and fight to save our NHS

SIR, From hero to villain: the National Health Service. That is, of course, if you believe that the greatest and most respected organisation this country has and will ever have is totally lacking in its overall objective of providing support, comfort and care to those that need it.

And if you do believe it, then would you be prepared to ditch it for a private health care insurance system that fundamentally means an end to a public health service with its core principles of meeting the needs of everyone, that is free at the point of delivery and that it be based on clinical need, not ability to pay?

If you would ditch it then rejoice, because that is what the Government is promoting by its ill-conceived health reforms of reorganisation and budget cuts.

If you do not want to ditch it, then please stand up and tell the Government and our local MP to start supporting and investing in its core strength – its nurses and doctors. If you do not then the NHS will be removed.

The disgrace at Stafford NHS is not a true representation of the NHS and will not happen in Harlow.

Spend extra cash on police officers

SIR, I was interested to read our new police commissioner for Essex, Nick Alston, wants a 3.5 per cent increase in the force's budget, presumably to pay for his £80,000 salary, office and expenses. Personally, I'd prefer to spend it on having more police officers.

Councillors clash during debate on gay marriage

LABOUR and Conservative councillors have clashed during a debate on gay marriage.

The row broke out after a motion put forward by Labour's Emma Toal calling on the authority to support the Marriage (Same Sex Couples) Bill - which was approved by MPs in the House of Commons last Tuesday - was discussed at Thursday's full council meeting.

Members of the town's gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender community sitting in the public gallery cheered as Cllr Toal said: "My belief is that everyone in this town should be equal no matter the colour of their skin, their faith or the gender of the person that they love."

"We have the responsibility to ensure that all our residents are treated equally. Some people say civil partnerships are equality but separate equal is not equal."

But while Labour members unanimously backed the motion, opposition councillors dismissed the motion as an attempt to deflect attention from a "catastrophic" first budget. Conservative group leader Andrew Johnson argued the debate was pointless as the Bill had already been approved by MPs, but added he could not support any legislation that attempted to redefine the institution of marriage.

"The Government's guarantees to not force religious institutions to conduct same-sex ceremonies is worthless because it will not come down to the British courts but to the European Court of Human Rights," he told the meeting.

"I am, of course, committed to equality but there are technical issues. I also cannot support the motion because it embarrasses us as a council by communicating with the Government months after the consultation period has closed."

But Labour councillor Ian Beckett, a practicing Christian, argued marriage was an expression of God's unconditional love and as such should not be restricted on the grounds of sexuality.

"I believe that God's love is perfect and as such is offered unconditionally," he said. "If two people of the same sex wish to accept this offer of love and enshrine that in marriage then this is to be encouraged and welcomed."

As the Star reported last week, Harlow MP Robert Halfon was subjected to abuse and threats of violence on social networking site Twitter after voting against the bill.

The motion before the council was carried.

EMMA TOAL: "We have the responsibility to ensure that all our residents are treated equally"

Priest quizzed over abuse allegations

ARRESTED: Father Tony McSweeney

A CATHOLIC priest who worked in Harlow for five years during the 1990s has been arrested in connection with child abuse allegations dating back to the early 1980s.

Father Tony McSweeney, now living in Norfolk, was priest of the Holy Cross & St Luke's Parish between 1993 and 1997.

Officers from Metropolitan Police arrested the 66-year-old last Wednesday on suspicion of committing sexual offences at the Elm Guest House in south west London almost 30 years ago.

A 70-year-old man from East Sussex was also arrested in connection with the same investigation, which was launched last year after concerns were raised by MP Tom Watson in the House of Commons.

By BIANCA CASTRO
bianca.castro@hertsexnews.co.uk

Mr Watson said a file of evidence used to convict paedophile Peter Righton of importing child pornography in 1992 contained "clear intelligence" of a sex abuse gang.

Commander Peter Spindler, head of the Met's Specialist Crime Investigations, said: "This is a complex multi-agency investigation supported by the NSPCC, CEOP (Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre) and Richmond Social Services involving non-recent allegations of sexual assault against children."

"It is vital that anyone who has been affected by or has information about activity in the early 1980s at the Elm Guest House or the Grafton Close care home in Barnes speaks to the NCPCC on their helpline on 0808 800 5000 or their local police."

Father McSweeney has been released on bail until April pending further inquiries.

According to the Diocese of East Anglia, he has voluntarily withdrawn from all active ministry and resigned from his role as director of the Notre Dame High School in Norwich with immediate effect.

Diocesan administrator Father David Bagstaff said: "The safeguarding of children and vulnerable people is of paramount importance to the Catholic church and the diocese is co-operating fully with the police in this investigation."

"Our thoughts and prayers are with all involved in the investigation."

Householder foils burglary

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after two men attempted to break into a house in Brook Lane Field, Harlow, at 12.20pm on Monday.

It is believed they fled in a metallic blue 1990s-style Land Rover with no number plates after being disturbed by the householder.

Tough decisions taken now will help to protect services

LAST week the council set its budgets for the coming financial year.

In doing so it had to balance the need to protect services with the need to cut spending to meet the Government's cuts in the grant it gives to the council.

I know how difficult it continues to be for residents in the current economic climate and it was with great reluctance that we agreed a 1.5 per cent increase in our share of council tax, which is equivalent to an increase of only 6p per week for a 'Band C' home. It was a small step I believe we had to take to save all residents from steeper council tax increases in years to come.

Changes in Government rules to Council Tax Benefit from April this year also mean that around 5,000 residents will either pay more council tax or pay it for the very first time.

The Government is giving the council 10 per cent less funding and making it agree a Local Council Tax Support Scheme to meet this funding cut. This means Harlow will have £1.3m less to support local people - a gap it simply cannot afford to make up given that it already faces making other budget savings of £1.75m in 2013/14 largely due to other cuts in Government grants.

COUNCIL MATTERS

By Mark Wilkinson
Leader, Harlow Council

Despite the huge financial challenges, the Playhouse will be funded for the next three years and the paddling pools funded for another year. More money will go to support the work of the youth council.

We are also adopting the Living Wage for our lower paid staff which I hope will be followed by other businesses in Harlow.

Increases in charges have been kept as low as possible and the introduction of a 20p charge for the first hour in three council neighbourhood car parks from September will contribute to the protection of other services.

We are also saving money at the Civic Centre. Senior management has been reduced further and this will save £50,000. Councillor allowances are reviewed by an independent remuneration panel but the administration has already publicly stated that there will be a freeze on allowances in 2013/14 - they will not be going up.

Further savings will see £2,000 come off the council chair's budget and £5,000 saved on training and conference attendance.

We have made tough decisions in very difficult circumstances but have done our utmost to protect services.

We will continue to do all that we can to protect services but we fear that the ongoing reductions in Government funding will create further pressure and challenges for Harlow in the coming years.

MPs home in on the Right To Buy

By BIANCA CASTRO
bianca.castro@hertsexnews.co.uk

HOUSING minister Mark Prisk visited Harlow on Friday to raise awareness of the Government's reinvigorated Right To Buy scheme.

Mr Prisk was joined in the town centre by local MP Robert Halfon, who has launched a new website helping council and social housing tenants to find out how to buy their homes.

Mr Prisk, MP for the neighbouring Bishop's Stortford and Hertford constituency, said: "We have learnt from the lessons of the 1980s when this was first introduced.

"The campaign is important because local people can really benefit from the Right To Buy scheme and many just don't know about it. "People who have started on low income housing and would like the chance to buy their home can do so and all the money made goes back into building new houses. It's a great scheme of growth."

Mr Halfon added: "Housing is the number one issue in Harlow and this scheme is built to help people on lower incomes own their own homes."

"The big difference between the old and new Right To Buy schemes is that the money now has to be used by local authorities to build more social and affordable housing, so it becomes a virtuous circle.

"This campaign is all about letting people know they have this chance to buy their own home - and get great discounts when they do."

The scheme is only open to tenants who

HOME SERVICE:

have rented public sector-owned accommodation for at least five years and who do not own any other properties.

Anyone with outstanding possession orders against them or legal problems with debt are not eligible to apply.

Those who sign up to Mr Halfon's website - www.righttobuyharlow.com - will be offered detailed advice on the support available to people looking to purchase their council or housing association property.

Discounts of up to 60 per cent for a house and 70 per cent for a flat, up to a limit of £75,000, are currently available to eligible applicants.

Armed police arrest three

THREE people were arrested after armed police swooped on a house in Orchard Croft, Harlow, in the early hours of Saturday.

Officers were called following reports of criminal damage and general disturbance.

Two of the those arrested were charged with possession of an air-powered weapon and appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday.

Crime witness woken by husband's snoring

A WOMAN who was kept awake by her husband's snoring was able to give police a running commentary of a burglary being carried out next door.

While Karen Hayden lay awake at 3am unable to get back to sleep, she heard voices outside her home at Canons Brook.

She looked out of the window and spotted two youths behaving suspiciously so she dialled 999 and was able to give police a commentary over the phone of what the pair were doing.

As a result of her amateur detective work and court evidence, one of the youths – a 13-year-old who cannot be named for legal reasons – appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court charged with burglary.

He denied the charge but it took the jury just 30 minutes to find the case proved.

The court had been told that as Mrs Hayden watched the drama unfold from her bedroom window, she directed police to where she thought the thieves were.

Mrs Hayden told the court: "I was at home in bed and wide awake as my husband was snoring. I was lying there and I heard footsteps stop and then run off. I got up and had a look.

"I went to the bedroom window and saw a boy running off down the path, stop and speak to somebody else. The boy tried to put some gloves on – I think they were latex gloves – and he ran to the bushes of the burgled house.

"The other chap entered the property through the front door and I thought 'he's doing a burglary' so I got my mobile and rang the police and described what was going on."

A recording of her 999 call to the police was played to the court. In it she is heard to say: "You need to come quickly, I can see a burglary in Canons Brook. I know who the boy is. Whether they've got a car down the road I don't know."

Her husband, Richard, then woke up and the pair of them directed police from their bedroom window to where they thought the burglars were.

Nneke Akodulu, prosecuting, told the jury the victims of the burglary were the Haydens' neighbours.

They went to bed at about 12.30am and were asleep in the house throughout the burglary in which a laptop, a Prada handbag, a Rolex watch, jewellery and the car were stolen.

The youth, who claimed it was a case of mistaken identity, will have to wait to hear his fate after sentencing was adjourned until March 11.

NEW designs illustrating draft plans for a revamp of Princess Alexandra Hospital's grounds are now on public display.

Students at Writtle College's school of design, pictured above with hospital staff, have been working with PAH on ways to improve the grounds for the benefit of both patients and visitors.

The designs incorporate several different features

Students' designs give PAH grounds a new lease of life including better signage, improved parking, wildlife corridors and concepts for new gardens.

Marc Davis, director of development at PAH said: "The standard of work was exceptionally high and we look forward to working with these concepts and ideas.

"Staff, patients and visitors have already been getting excited about the designs which are displayed around the hospital site. There is a real buzz about them.

"They are displayed in prominent places so everyone gets an opportunity to view them."

Belt up – police stop 63 drivers for using their mobile phones

MORE than 200 vehicles were stopped and checked by police as part of an operation to improve road safety and cut crime on Harlow's roads.

Roadside checks and mobile patrols were carried out as part of Essex Police's 'Operation Surround A Town' which also forms part of Essex County Council's 'No Excuse' road safety initiative.

A total of 31 cars were being driven without a current MOT, 56 drivers were stopped for failing to use seatbelts and 63 were caught using a mobile phone while behind the wheel.

Three men were arrested on suspicion of being illegal immigrants, while another man was arrested after being found in possession of cannabis.

Schoolchildren also got involved with the operation by helping to carry out speed checks outside their schools. Those caught exceeding the speed limit were given the choice of paying a £60 fine and receiving three points on their licence or facing a road safety lecture from the pupils.

Derrick Louis, Essex County Council's cabinet member for highways and transportation, said road safety was one of the authority's key priorities.

"We work closely with partners such as Essex Police to deliver education and enforcement activity as well as to raise awareness of issues such as the use of mobile phones, seatbelts and speeding," he said.

"We all have a role to play in keeping ourselves and other road users safe and by working together we can help make Essex an even safer place to live."

WHAT makes your house a home? Is it being surrounded by your favourite people and favourite belongings? Is it somewhere you relax and retreat from the frenetic outside world or is it somewhere you like to entertain your friends and family?

It seems that for most of us, creating a home is less about the building itself, its look or the area it is in, and more about the emotional connection and sense of comfort we're able to create behind closed doors.

This notion of private space is key to our sense of wellbeing and self-expression, believes Simon Moore, psychologist at London Metropolitan University. "Personal space allows thinking space," he says.

While the property you live in might be far from your ideal, even design experts agree that making a house a feelgood space is not about it being worthy of an interiors magazine, but ensuring it reflects who we are and how we live our lives.

Spring is traditionally the time to declutter and spruce up the home. As we start to see the end of the dark winter days, now is the time to think about a new look for your home or just refresh your existing interiors.

Put some time aside to create the home you really want and then sit back and reap the rewards.

The man-made man

MEET Rex – the real-life bionic man fitted with artificial organs, synthetic blood and robotic limbs. It might sound like the stuff of science fiction novels, but Rex – short for robotic exoskeletons – was unveiled last week to show how scientists could soon use similar technology to save lives. He is made up of parts that will one day be used to replace real organs in transplant patients. Among his amazing features are man-made blood, an artificial heart and manufactured eyes that can actually see. The team of UK robotocists who built him say the £640,000 project proves we now have the technology to replace real body parts. The 6ft 2ins artificial man was made for a television documentary - How To Build A Bionic Man - which was broadcast last week. The presenter, Swiss psychologist Bertolt Meyer, even has a bionic hand himself – and Rex's incredibly lifelike face is based on his. Meyer said: "I was born without a left hand so I have always been fascinated by bionics. "Rex gives us hope that humans can build organs." Rex is now part of a new exhibition on robotics at the Science Museum in London where he will remain on display until March 11.

Songs, dance and some West End magic

GIVE that wallet-busting weekend trip to the West End a miss and head to the Playhouse instead as Harlow's longest-running dance school stages a spectacular tribute to the best-loved musicals of all-time.

Now in its 48th year, the Brenda Taylor School of Dance & Performing Arts returns to the theatre on Saturday and Sunday with dazzling song-and-dance spectacular Thank You For The Music...And All That Jazz.

And with choreography from West End stars and former pupils Michael Kent (Matilda and The Book Of Mormon), Charlotte Spencer (Mary Poppins), Odette Perdisat (Chicago and Mamma Mia) and actress Maria Despina (Mamma Mia), it promises to be a show to remember.

Principal Brenda Taylor said: "I'm absolutely thrilled that so many of our former pupils have come back to help us put this show together. "They might all be big stars performing in the West End and in films but they have never forgotten where they started out.

"Our current students have really enjoyed learning from them and the routines they have been working on together are some of the best we've ever done."

The show will feature excerpts from hit shows including Mary Poppins, Chicago and Matilda, while the 80-strong cast will also dance several original routines conceived by Brenda and her staff.

She added: "We wanted to try to make sure there was something on the bill for everyone to enjoy. If you love dance, musicals and the West End, then this is the perfect show for you."

● Thank You For The Music...And All That Jazz runs for three performances over Saturday and Sunday, with shows starting at 3.30pm on both days and 7pm on Saturday evening.

Tickets cost £13 (£12 Playhouse Supporters Club members) from (01279) 431945 or www.playhouseharlow.com.

From page to stage in the form of radio play

By CHRIS MOSS

SET sail for Victoria Hall this weekend as Harlow Theatre Company kicks off a new season of drama with swashbuckling pirate spoof The Ever-So Heroic Adventures of Captain Square Jaw.

Written by HTC stalwart Steve Hannam, the wacky, Spike Milligan-esque tale first appeared as a novel in 2006 and has now been transferred from page to stage by the aspiring author himself.

Taking the form of a live radio play, the rib-tickling romp follows the heroic exploits of pirate captain Nelson Square-Jaw, who is forced into tracking down the coveted Jewel of Essex by a gang of cut-throat mercenaries who have taken half his crew hostage in the sleepy port town of Certain Death.

On his ocean-hopping journey he encounters a cross-dressing Wise Woman, a troupe of sinister clowns, a very tall Welshman and a host of other colourful characters as he battles against the clock to save his hapless chums.

According to HTC chairman Kyle Jagers, the show is shaping up to be an unforgettable night of theatre.

"Steve has had this idea of turning it into a radio play, just like the style of The Goons Show and Round The Horne," he said.

"We are thrilled that he has asked us to help turn that idea into a reality and can't wait to see the finished piece.

"It is promising to be a very entertaining evening, especially as we'll have local stand up comic Ian Stacey warming the audience up each night."

The play also marks an important turning point for HTC as it will be the first time audiences will be able to book tickets online at the group's website.

Kyle explained: "It just seemed to be the logical step to take for the company. As more and more business is done online, we have to ensure we keep up with the times.

"We know that Victoria Hall's in-house Christmas show used the system we have adopted and it worked brilliantly for them."

● The Ever-So Heroic Adventures of Captain Square Jaw opens tomorrow (Friday, February 15) at Victoria Hall Theatre on Bury Road, Old Harlow, for a two-night run. Performances begin at 8pm and tickets cost £11 (£9 concessions) from 0844 8700 887 or online at www.harlowtheatrecompany.org.uk/boxoffice.

LOVED UP: Paul Rudd and Leslie Mann star as a middle-aged couple looking to reignite their relationship in THIS IS 40

Forty towers over a couple stuck in a rut

THIS IS 40
certificate 15, 2h13m

SINCE the release of The 40-Year-Old Virgin, in which Steve Carell famously had his chest waxed on camera, writer-director Judd Apatow has become synonymous with rumbustious yet touching comedies which explore the foibles of the human condition.

Knocked Up refracted a traditional boy meets girl scenario through the prism of unexpected parenthood. Then Funny People reunited a beleaguered stand-up comedian with his estranged family in the shadow of terminal illness.

In This Is 40, Apatow revisits characters from Knocked Up to explore the reality of married life for a middle-aged couple who have lost that loving feeling.

Pete (Paul Rudd) and Debbie (Leslie Mann) have raised two beautiful daughters – 13-year-old Sadie (Maude Apatow) and eight-year-old Charlotte (Iris Apatow) – but are now stuck in a rut.

Sadie is going through a difficult phase, clashing with her parents about her addiction to her favourite television show. Meanwhile, precocious tyke Charlotte is upset by all of the screaming and shouting in the house.

As Debbie goes into denial about turning 40 in the very same week that Pete celebrates the same milestone, husband and wife re-evaluate their stagnating marriage. They decide an emotional spring clean is in order, which has dramatic repercussions for Pete's cash-strapped father (Albert Brooks) and Debbie's employees (Megan Fox, Charlyne Yi) at her upscale clothing boutique, one of whom is dipping her polished nails into the till.

This Is 40 hopes to recapture the sentimental glory of Knocked Up but lightning doesn't strike twice, although it's close.

Laughter and tears are weighted heavily in favour of the former with some very funny interludes, including a marijuana-spiked vacation and Rudd examining his lower portions in a mirror.

However, the characters' various emotional crises scream out for resolution well before Apatow decides that he's had his fill.

Rudd and Mann – Apatow's real-life wife – are an attractive pairing and scenes of them bickering are galvanised by wonderful on-screen chemistry and sharp script.

Casting Mann's daughters Iris and Maude adds to the realism of the dysfunctional on-screen family unit.

A scene-stealing cameo from Melissa McCarthy (Bridesmaids) delivers big laughs and Jason Segel and Chris O'Dowd catalyse an amusing rivalry for Fox's affections.

Regrettably, brevity is not the soul of Apatow's wit. Where one snappy scene would suffice, the writer-director opts for protracted navel-gazing until we, like Pete and Debbie, begin to lose faith in the central relationship.

At an exhausting 133 minutes, the film could arguably be re-titled This Is 40 Minutes Too Long.

>still on screen

WRECK IT RALPH Wreck-It Ralph (voiced by John C Reilly) is the bad guy in a video game called Fix-It Felix Jr. However, after years of destruction, Ralph yearns to be the hero, so with a heavy heart he breaks protocol to seek adventure in a futuristic first-person shooting game called Hero's Duty, serving under the command of ballsy space trooper Sergeant Calhoun (Jane Lynch). But Ralph escapes the game and unwittingly transports an alien Cy-Bug from Hero's Duty into the neighbouring Sugar Rush racing game. While the creature lays eggs and prepares to overrun the realm of King Candy (Alan Tudyk) and his subjects, Ralph befriends diminutive misfit Vanellope von Schweetz (Sarah Silverman).

WARM BODIES A terrible epidemic reduces most of the population to shuffling corpses incapable of speech or feeling. Survivors of the disaster are crammed inside a high-walled metropolis patrolled by General Grigio (John Malkovich) and his gun-toting troops. But when the general's feisty teenage daughter Julie (Teresa Palmer) ventures into the dead zone with her boyfriend Perry (Dave Franco) and best friend Nora (Analeigh Tipton), they come under attack from zombie buddies R (Nicholas Hoult) and M (Rob Corddry). R kills Perry and devours the boyfriend's brain, which transfers memories of Julie. Something stirs within the zombie and he rebels against his carnivorous nature to protect the terrified girlfriend from the marauding hordes.

LES MISERABLES Former convict Valjean (Hugh Jackman) has reinvented himself as a revered factory owner in Montreuil-sur-Mer, where one of his workers – Fantine (Anne Hathaway) – is cruelly cast out when the foreman learns she has an illegitimate daughter, Cosette (Isabelle Allen). Determined to raise the money to keep her child under the roof of villainous Thenardier (Sacha Baron Cohen) and his wife (Helena Bonham Carter), Fantine sells her hair and then her body until Valjean discovers her close to death and agrees to raise Cosette as his own. So the story moves on a further nine years when revolutionary fervour surges through the grimy streets of Paris, inflamed by students Enjolras (Aaron Tveit) and Marius (Eddie Redmayne). The latter falls under the spell of Cosette (now played by Amanda Seyfried), unaware that Thenardier's daughter, Epouine (Samantha Barks), adores him from afar.

I GIVE IT A YEAR The film begins with the wedding of Nat (Rose Byrne) and Josh (Rafe Spall), who have enjoyed a whirlwind romance and are looking forward to getting to know each better other as husband and wife. A toe-curling speech from best man Danny (Stephen Merchant) is the first bad omen and nine months later the couple are in a counselling session with a sardonic therapist (Olivia Colman) plagued by her own relationship issues. A depressed Josh seeks refuge in the company of kooky old flame Chloe (Anna Farris), who has been abroad for years and clearly still adores him, while corporate high flier Nat is wooed by charming American businessman Guy (Simon Baker).

A GOOD DAY TO DIE HARD certificate TBC

WHO fancies taking a walk down Memory McClane? It has been an incredible 25 years since John McClane (Bruce Willis) first stormed the Nakatomi Plaza in Los Angeles to rescue his wife from German terrorist Hans Gruber in the original Die Hard.

Since then, the wise-cracking hero has battled terrorists in an airport, played deadly games with Gruber's psychotic brother in New York City and hacked down a gang of cyber terrorists in the company of his daughter Lucy (Mary Elizabeth Winstead).

For this fifth chapter, John's son

Jack (Jai Courtney) enters the cinematic fray, joining the old man on an explosive jaunt through Moscow to prevent disgraced Russian general Komorov (Sebastian Koch) from wreaking havoc.

Irish director John Moore (Max Payne) keeps a tight rein on the pyrotechnics. As the poster tagline succinctly puts it: Yippee-ki-yay, Mother Russia.

BEAUTIFUL CREATURES certificate 12A, 2h04m

BASED on the first book in the Caster Chronicles series by Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl, Beautiful Creatures is a supernatural love story about a teenager with strange powers torn between the forces of darkness and light.

Lena Duchannes (Alice Englert) possesses incredible abilities, passed down through the generations, which have compelled her to remain distant from the people she loves.

She arrives in the small town of Gatlin and immediately catches the eye of Ethan Wate (Alden Ehrenreich), who hopes to escape the backwater for a brighter and more exciting future.

At first, Lena is reluctant to allow Ethan into her life but romance blossoms. However, her 16th birthday approaches, when she must take part in a ritual known as the Claiming, which will dictate whether she is destined to use her powers for good or evil.

Directed by Richard LaGravenese, the film co-stars Emma Thompson, Viola Davis and Eileen Atkins.

SAMMY'S GREAT ADVENTURE certificate U, 1h33m

BEGINNING straight after the events of A Turtle's Tale, the film starts with Sammy (voiced by Wesley Johnson) and his sweetheart Shelley (Isabelle Fuhrman) proudly welcoming their tiny grandchildren into the world.

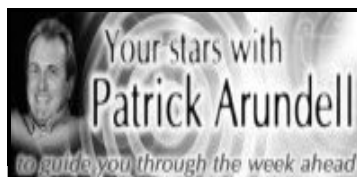

Nearby, Sammy's best friend Ray (Carlos McCullers II) and his soulmate take care of their brood. The adult greenbacks and leatherbacks stand guard over the adorable hatchlings, protecting the newborns from circling gulls.

But the turtles are so focussed on airborne attacks they fail to notice poachers, who capture Sammy and Ray and transport the animals to a vast undersea complex in Dubai.

Two hatchlings – Ella and Ricky – are also snared by the poachers and join their grandparents on the terrifying adventure.

The Leo Full Moon resonates strongly into this week. With Saturn broadly at a right angle, this suggests your choices in life, love and socially need to be governed by an awareness of how this pans out emotionally or impacts on those who provide the support that the planets offer you. Jupiter continues to encourage you to think and believe the best. Call for more news and astral advice...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
That old saying of "speculate to accumulate" comes to mind when thinking of how the Full Moon will interact with Jupiter this week for you. However, if you intend to engage in a partnership, or promote yourself to anyone influential, family issues need consideration too. Handle this right, and you can build some prestigious links. Wrong, and things can fall over. Call me for your in-depth forecast...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
If you are looking for a new, but stable, on-going relationship, the next couple of weeks could prove crucial. Be optimistic about this, and expansion of your hopes in general. The world can open up to you in all sorts of positive ways now, so do try to be as proactive as you possibly can. Legal and publishing situations also look hopeful for you Gemini. Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
Someone could spring a wonderful surprise on you. This may stem from a past goodness you have done for them, or perhaps you will decide to invest time in a special cause. If you are interested in metaphysical subjects, spirituality or more traditional religions, they can all resonate that much more powerfully, as can different forms of alternative medicine. Call now for your in-depth forecast...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
You may find yourself increasingly attuned to possibilities professionally, that lay to further afield. This could even be overseas. Productive partnerships can be forged which transcend cultural differences. In fact, by embracing these, you can grow yourself. You may even find yourself linking with someone romantically this week. Openness can work wonders. Call me now for your love scope in full...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
You may be offered a course of re-training, or attend a seminar. Anything professionally which encourages your career prospects should be carefully considered. You may also be asked to fulfil some kind of public role which is voluntary based or of help to your community. In general, developing co-operative links with experienced people can be really good for you. Call for more news and astral advice...

Four-bed detached house in a sought-after location

coverproperty

Location Springhall Road, Sawbridgeworth

Category Four-bedroom detached

Additional Two reception rooms, double garage, short walk to town centre

Guide price £450,000

Agent Intercounty, 1 Bell Street, Sawbridgeworth. Telephone (01279) 600333

THIS week's cover property in a very popular and sought-after part of Sawbridgeworth is a great example of the desirable properties in the area.

A glazed door opens into the porch where there is a door to the garage and another to an inner hallway. Here there is parquet flooring and stairs to the first floor.

Leading off the hall is a cloakroom and a door to the kitchen, which features a range of eye and base level wall units, an inset electric hob with extractor hood, a built-in double oven and a breakfast bar.

Next to the kitchen is the dining room and the lounge, both of which have sliding doors to the garden.

The half-turned staircase takes you to the first floor where there are four bedrooms and a family bathroom.

Bedroom one is a good size with a selection of built-in wardrobes and a window to the rear. There is a shower cubicle in one corner of the room which is currently being used as a storage area.

Bedroom two overlooks the front of the house while both the third and fourth bedrooms have windows to the rear.

The bathroom has a larger than average corner bath with a shower attachment and a leaded light window to the front.

There is a double garage with power and light connected, while the south-facing rear garden is mainly laid to lawn with mature trees and flower beds. There are various patio areas, a shed, a brick-built barbecue and an ornamental pond with water feature.

To the front of the house there is driveway parking for three vehicles.

For full details of this property or to arrange a viewing, contact Intercounty on (01279) 600333.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

I have an interior designer friend who is married to an architect. Their home is, as you might expect, cutting edge.

Their house overlooks the sea on the Essex coast and is bold, stylish and contemporary with dramatic use of space and light. There is no question about who lives there.

I can't honestly say it is the house of my dreams but you can see their personalities as well as their professions through the property. And I love that.

Our homes tells the story of who we are. Whether it's the pictures, carefully chosen accessories and colours or the mounds of clutter and lack of co-ordination, you can usually glean an idea of the owner when you look around where they live

Whereas this is usually a wonderful thing, the opposite can often be true when it comes to selling. Talking to a local estate agent recently, he said that after many years in his industry he still couldn't believe how many people would expect potential buyers to either see past or even embrace the piles of clutter as a 'lived-in look' when they came to view.

If you've been trying to sell your home for a while and watched as other houses have come on to the market and sold while yours remains, why not try a little re-modelling? It doesn't need to cost a fortune – it might just involve a clear out or a fresh coat of paint.

If you find yourself buried in clutter, take steps to eliminate it. Keep only the best.

If you haven't updated in a while remember that trends have changed. Keep it simple and plain and that way you're more likely to appeal to a wide audience.

Our homes may reflect our personalities, but it's your property you're selling, not your personality.

Beware the Undervaluer

Despite the credit crunch, the British remain passionate about home ownership. Banks are also in the business of lending money, yet having burnt their fingers with wildly generous lending in the past they are keen not to make the same mistake again.

There is one particular effect of changes in the mortgage market that could affect you if you are currently buying or selling. That is the undervaluing surveyor!

When your property goes on the market, your agent's job is to secure the very highest price the market will pay. An experienced local estate agent should have a pretty accurate idea of what the market will pay (although beware those agents who suggest a very flattering figure to impress you to gain your property, which then might struggle to sell and go stale on the market!).

Once that figure, or one close to it, has been achieved and a sale has been agreed, the buyer will invariably arrange for a formal valuation to support their mortgage application. However, these valuations are designed to be a safety net for the lender and valuers are increasingly aware of reducing risk both for their client (the bank), and themselves. They have traditionally been more concerned about the evidence of previous sales than they are about what the market will actually pay today and we are currently experiencing some surprisingly high figures being achieved.

So buyers and sellers alike, both of whom really do want to move, should be prepared for a slight downvaluation following the mortgage valuation inspection, but not let it deter them. Unless the valuation affects the ability to borrow enough, it does not always follow that the price itself is unrealistic and need not necessarily be renegotiated between buyer and seller.

Would you ADAM and Eve it?

THE ADAM punts Vauxhall straight into the style-led city car sector. It's striking, inside and out, and includes some features yet to be seen in this segment. The big question is will urban hipsters get past this most blue-collar of badges.

Vauxhall has built some stylish cars in the past. The trouble is, they've only been stylish to a small percentage of the car buying population. A Vauxhall with widespread chic appeal? I'm struggling to think of one. Some of the company's niche models have undoubtedly worked – and well, but with its ADAM city car, Vauxhall is looking to grab the attention of buyers who might otherwise choose a MINI, a Fiat 500 or a Citroen DS3.

We can't even blame Vauxhall for that odd name. It's an Opel thing. Vauxhall's sister brand in Germany flexed the corporate muscles and insisted it be named after Adam Opel, the firm's founder. It's got me wondering if it'll start at trend for Biblical car names. Lotus Ezekiel anyone?

Driving Experience

Talk to anyone who really knows about cars and they'll tell you how good the latest generation

Corsa is. Trouble is, the man in the street still associates the Corsa with the mediocre vehicles that replaced the Nova and weren't particularly great. The ADAM rides on a cut down version of the Corsa's chassis and that can only be good news. It's been extensively re-engineered to suit the demands of the shorter wheelbase. It's ostensibly quite a simple set-up but Vauxhall has invested years of know-how.

Up front are a set of MacPherson struts while the rear end uses a torsion beam set-up. Ease of use on urban roads is enhanced by a CITY mode, which increases the electronic power steering's assistance at lower speeds.

Design and Build

This is a car that's going to sell largely on whether the styling chimes with new car buyers and Vauxhall certainly can't be accused of going at it half-cocked. There's a lot going on, the design work attributed to Brit, Mark Adams' team in Europe. The ADAM incorporates a 'floating' roof, visually disconnected from the body, which works particularly well with two-tone colour schemes. It looks like no other Vauxhall but still incorporates a bunch of existing styling cues, such as the Astra's wing-shaped chrome grille bar and the blade shape in the lower doors. Like MINI, Vauxhall is looking to appeal to the customer's sense of individuality in the sheer amount of colour combinations and materials. Wheels range from 16 inches in size for entry-level cars and there are 17 and 18-inch options further up the range, with a lowered sports chassis part of the deal.

Unlike many cars which offer striking exterior designs but an interior that betrays a sudden curtailment of development budget, the cabin of the ADAM is, if anything, even bolder. There's extensive use of body-coloured trim inserts, not only on the dashboard but also reaching along the centre console and onto the steering wheel aimed at giving the interior a real riotous personality. A seven-inch touch screen interface is the big point of interest from a technological perspective. It's both iPhone and Android compatible, and can access internet-downloaded apps in the same manner as the latest Renault Clio and Peugeot 208. Where specified, the navigation and infotainment controls are all marshalled by the touch screen. There's even a choice of headlining, including an LED-lit starlight roof trim.

Market and Model

Again with the wacky names.

The ADAM is offered with three trim levels, JAM (fashionable/colourful), GLAM (elegant/sophisticated) and SLAM (racy/sporty). The latest generation ESP system is standard on all models and it includes a Hill Start Assist function. That wonderful star-effect roof and a heated steering wheel are options differentiating the Vauxhall from the run-of-the-mill city car contenders and these surprise and delight features are key in a market that's not always led fully by upfront pricing. Talking of which, expect the ADAM to open in the region of £11,000, so it should undercut the MINI, if not the Fiat 500.

Cost of Ownership

As you'd expect, the ADAM's economy and emissions figures slightly better those achieved by the same engines in the heavier Corsa. So you can expect well over 50mpg on the combined cycle and close to 120g/km of CO2 even from the poky 100PS 1.4-litre petrol variant.

In other words, whichever model you opt for, day-to-day running costs aren't going to generate much cause for concern. Insurance ratings and residual values look extremely promising.

Come on in and take a Seat...

FIGURES released by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders have revealed new car registrations in the UK soared to their highest levels last year since 2008, with a 5.3 per cent increase over 2011, breaking the two million mark for the first time since before the recession, with 2,044,609 new cars being registered.

In the same positive vein dynamic Spanish carmaker SEAT also recorded a stunning success last year with record-breaking sales and market share. Sales of 38,798 gave SEAT a 1.9% share of the UK market.

CMC SEAT Harlow is looking to capitalise on these amazing achievements and is buoyant about its prospects, especially with the launch this year of exciting models such as the new Leon, the Mii and Ibiza Toca editions, as well as the Toledo and Ibiza.

Paul Holmes, Dealer Principal at CMC SEAT Harlow in Edinburgh Way, Harlow, said: "Two new SEAT models were recently added to the car maker's line-up thanks to the official release of the catchy SEAT Mii and Ibiza Toca.

"These two models come with a stunning exterior finish and plenty of interesting features including the famous SEAT Portable System.

"New SEAT Leons don't come around often, but when they do they always cause a stir, and the eagerly awaited third generation due in showrooms in March is destined to be a real head turner."

The new Leon is sure to cut a dash in the hatchback market with its arrow head design, sharp lines and first in class optional LED headlamps. The cabin consists of plush, soft-feel materials and little details like back lit door handles and chrome surround switches.

All models in the range, which at launch starts with the Leon S, rising through SE and on to the sporty FR, feature a colour touch screen for controlling the on-board sound system and optional satellite navigation. Bluetooth telephone connection with audio streaming is standard on all models with air conditioning on S and dual zone climate control on SE and FR.

A full complement of passengers can travel in comfort as space in both front and rear is good for the class, and with improved boot space of 380 litres, the new Leon will prove as capable a family car as it does a driver focussed hatch back.

Under the bonnet it shares the latest range of highly efficient VW Group petrol and diesel engines so if it is fuel economy and low emissions you are after then the 1.6 TDi with the promise of 74.3 mpg and 99 g/km CO₂ will suit. But if you want a truly spirited performer with little compromise on economy, then look no further than the Leon FR TDi.

With a powerful 184 PS engine, the 0-62mph sprint is dealt with in a rapid 7.5 seconds, yet it still returns an impressive 65.7 mpg average on government tests.

Petrol fans have a choice of 1.2 and 1.4 TSi units, both of which are willing performers, whilst the 180 PS 1.8 TSi gives the Leon FR true hot hatch credentials.

The five-door Leon is available from launch in S, SE and FR trim levels, from an incredible £15,670 RRP.

To prove That SEAT really is in 'touch' with what its customers want the company is also delighted to announce the arrival in showrooms of the Mii and Ibiza Toca editions. Toca is the Spanish word for 'touch', giving a fairly obvious clue as to the particular bonus buyers get when choosing one of these new models. Yes, it's a touch screen. Specifically, Toca models come with the very useful SEAT Portable System and rear parking sensors – both especially useful in the car's natural environment, the busy city streets.

The Toca editions are available now, with the first cars expected to hit the road during early February – and customers buying either the Mii or Ibiza Toca before April will enjoy huge discounts.

That's because until the end of March 2013 the Mii Toca is reduced by £850, putting the three-door model at an attractive £8,995, while the Ibiza Toca editions all receive a £2,705 cut, leaving the three-door (SC) model with an outstanding £9,995 price.

Every Toca edition is loaded with equipment, including, the SEAT Portable Sat Nav System, air conditioning, a leather steering wheel and gear knob, heated and electrically adjustable door mirrors, electric front windows, electronic stability control (ESC), remote central locking, and front fog lights with cornering function (Ibiza Toca only).

CMC is a family run business, which for 30 years has provided a professional high quality service to thousands of customers in North London, South Hertfordshire and Essex.

For more information or to book a test drive telephone the dealership on (01279) 775900.

Hyundai enjoys best ever sales year in the UK

HYUNDAI starts the New Year as one of the top 10 best-selling manufacturers in the UK – the first time for any Korean car brand – after recording best-ever sales of 74,285 vehicles.

Within this CMC also had a record year with 650 total sales from their premises on Edinburgh Way, Harlow.

Hyundai are now the first Korean car brand to make it in to the top 10 best-selling manufacturers in the UK – 11 place improvement since 2008. It was their best ever sales in 2012 – 74,285 units – up 18.1% on previous best in 2011

Hyundai UK outperformed the car market by more than three times increasing sales over 2011 by 18.1% and it secured a record market share of 3.63%. It also became the fastest-growing manufacturer in the Fleet sector with an impressive 40% increase in fleet sales versus 2011.

Tony Whitehorn, President and CEO, Hyundai UK said:

“Despite challenging economic and social conditions, Hyundai has had an exceptional year.

“The investment in desirable new products which offer more than just good value has been integral to consumers reappraising the Hyundai brand. Since 2008, Hyundai has more than 250,000 more cars on the road and has seen sales nearly triple in just four years.

“We have risen from 21st in the UK car market to breaking through at number 10 – that is a tremendous achievement, and a testament to the hard work of our employees and the Dealer

Network.”

The best-selling model of 2012 was the award-winning i10 with over 23,000 units sold, up 13.5% versus 2011. It was the second best-selling car in the A-segment – outselling the likes of the Ford Ka and VW Up – with a segment share of 12.5%.

Carbuyer.co.uk's Car of the Year – the i30 – sold more than 12,000 units, competing well against other established C-segment vehicles – the VW Golf, Ford Focus and Vauxhall Astra.

The New Generation i30 has also recently been shortlisted for the 2013 European Car of the Year award.

The i20 is Hyundai's third best-seller with sales of over 11,000 vehicles. Following closely behind also with over 11,000 units sold, the ix35 – currently the oldest product in the Hyundai range – saw an astonishing increase of 58% versus 2011 and a segment share of nearly 5%.

In their first full year of sale, the i40 notched up sales of over 5,700 and Veloster nearly 1,700.

Tony Whitehorn added: “The investment in new product has undoubtedly driven the incredible sales success that we have seen over the last few years. We have invested in product, now we will invest in the brand and the customer experience. We have the building blocks in place and now it's time to create an environment for healthy and sustainable growth in the future.”

Hyundai in Europe has also continued its growth with a best-ever year, selling 444,000 units which is up 10.2% on last year and a market share of 3.4%. Sales for Hyundai globally rose 8.6% to 4.4 million.

Paul Holmes, MD of CMC Hyundai Harlow, said: “It's an exciting time to represent the Hyundai brand. Not everyone realises that they are a huge corporation, in fact in the top 20 largest in the world. This means they are the only car manufacturer to have their own metal production, build the ships that transport their cars and even the robots that build the cars.

“So it's a great time to come and see why so many drivers have discovered Hyundai cars. Visit us at Edinburgh Way, Harlow or call 01279 775900.”

The golden touch

Toyota Auris

THE Auris is a family hatchback developed from experience which bought us the best-selling car of this kind of all time – Toyota's Corolla, 35 million of which were sold in its lifetime before the first generation Auris model took over in 2007. This original version, its name derived from the Latin, 'aurum', for gold, arrived as a safe and sensible choice that built upon the strengths of its predecessor without threatening the Focus and Golf fraternity in any particular way. It did though, have the distinction of pioneering hybrid power in this segment back in 2010. But the world's biggest brand needed to do more in a market increasingly demanding more dynamic, appealingly styled, hi-tech and efficient products. With tough competition not only from the mainstream makers but also from up-and-coming Korean budget brands, it needed to bring us a car like this, the second generation Auris model, launched here at the very end of 2012.

Driving Experience

The big news here is, when it comes to ride and handling, this Toyota is as good – and in most cases better – than just about everything else in this closely-fought market segment. This is really down to three things.

- Taking out weight.
- Stiffening the bodyshell.
- Lowering the centre of gravity.

All key elements in improving handling, high speed stability and, as it happens, this model's traditionally strong attribute, ride comfort. Refinement isn't quite as impressive, despite the engineers' best efforts, unless of course you're in the clever hybrid model cruising along on silent battery power (as is possible in this variant for up to 1.2 miles if you switch into its 'EV' mode). This petrol/electric Auris is unique in this segment, combining a 1.8-litre VVT-i combustion engine with an electric motor to create a combined power output of 134bhp, accessible via a 6-speed CVT auto gearbox that's supposed to make a better job of matching vehicle speed with engine revs than its predecessor but still whines when you rev it hard or try to match Toyota's quoted performance stats of 62mph from rest in 10.9s on the way to 112mph. As befits its hi-tech status, the Hybrid Auris gets the more sophisticated of the two suspension set-ups offered across the range, a double wishbone set-up also used on the more conventional 130bhp 1.6-litre Valvmatic petrol variant I tried. Toyota has assumed the two remaining choices in the line-up, the 89bhp 1.4-litre D-4D diesel and the 98bhp 1.33-litre VVT-i petrol will be driven by people who care less about ride and handling, hence their need to make do with a simpler torsion beam rear suspension set-up. Design and Buildwordcount: 234 If you're familiar with the look of the first generation Auris, then you won't be expecting what Toyota has served up with this MK2 model. The old car wasn't a bad looker, just a little bit anonymous. This time round though, it's as if everything has been sharpened and optimised to offer the much more extrovert design statement that Toyota calls its 'Keen Look'. Despite an overall length increase of 30mm, Toyota is proud of the fact that this remains one of the most compact cars in the family hatchback class. Fortunately, some very design has ensured you don't notice the slightly smaller dimensions. Take the reduced roof height, disguised by the way the roof gently bulges over the passenger's heads. Out back, there's slightly more bootspace than before – 360-litres. That applies right across the range, even to the Hybrid model, thanks to the relocation of that car's battery pack to a position under the rear bench. Plenty of thought has also gone in up-front, where the seats have a much greater adjustment range. As for the dash – it doesn't feel as plush and up-market as some rivals. Still, build quality from the British Burnaston factory is strong, plus the layout remains ergonomically sound and is at least a little more interesting than before, with the centre console in most variants dominated by this 'Toyota Touch' multimedia screen.

Market and Modelword

Recognising the rivals for this car are priced more aggressively than ever, Toyota has sensibly kept Auris asking figures very reasonable, most models likely to be sold in the £15,000 to £23,000 bracket. There's a simple bodystyle choice between five-door hatch and (for a premium of around £1,000) 'Touring Sports' estate across the various petrol, diesel and hybrid engine variants on offer.

Look at the entry-level 1.33-litre VVT-i petrol unit and you've the option of finding an extra £1,300 for the more frugal 1.4-litre D-4D diesel, with the pokier 1.8-litre petrol/electric Hybrid variant (which will probably be the UK best seller) a further £1,500 price step beyond that.

Whichever five-door hatchback or estate 'Touring Sports' variant you choose with whichever mainstream engine - 1.33 or 1.6-litre petrol, 1.4-litre D-4D diesel or 1.8-litre petrol/electric Hybrid - it'll come reasonably equipped. Though the entry-level version does without the 'Toyota Touch' multimedia system with its DAB digital radio, Bluetooth 'phone connectivity and rear view camera that most potential buyers will want, all three features are fitted further up the range, along with alloy wheels.

And all models get LED daytime running lights, powered heated door mirrors, air conditioning with a pollen filter, a trip computer, a decent quality MP3 CD stereo with USB and Aux connectivity, Hill Start Assist to stop you from drifting backwards on uphill junctions and nice touches like a front armrest and leather trim for a steering wheel that has stereo controls.

Cost of ownership

Inevitably, the headlines here are made by the hybrid petrol-electric Hybrid Synergy Drive model, able (on 15-inch wheels) to deliver 74.3mpg on the combined cycle and CO2 emissions as low as 87g/km and include virtually no NOx or particulate matter.

Both the 1.33-litre VVT-i petrol variant and the 1.4-litre D-4D diesel now get a Stop & Start system that cuts the engine when you don't need it, with, as a result, the 1.33 petrol managing 52.3mpg on the combined cycle and 125g/km of CO2. As for the 1.4 D-4D diesel Auris, well you'll have to try even harder to find a competitor able to match running cost returns that see it achieving a combined cycle reading of 74.3mpg and a CO2 return of just 99g/km.

The 1.6-litre Valvmatic petrol variant I'm driving here has, rather unfathomably, to do without Stop & Start and, as a result, struggles a lot more on the balance sheet, managing a combined cycle reading of 47.9mpg and a CO2 return of 138g/km, figures you can in fact slightly improve by opting for the 7-speed CVT Multidrive S automatic gearbox.

All models get pretty low insurance ratings (groups 7 to 14 on the 1-50 scale), aided by the fact the Auris is unlikely to attract boy racers and repair costs have been kept to a minimum.

Summary

If you bring uncompromising reason to the purchase decision when it comes to getting yourself a new family hatchback, you'll bond with this Auris right away. Optimal Drive technology, hybrid power, low servicing costs, impressive residuals: it'll be music to your ears.

This car now offers a lot more. You simply don't expect it to be as sharp looking, as accomplished to drive and as value-orientated as it is. As a result, with a choice of petrol, diesel or hybrid, hatch or estate, this generation Auris deserves to finally shake off its image as a family hatchback makeweight.

There are, it's true, still more dynamic, more versatile and more up-market-feeling choices in this class, but few are now able to stack up as well as an overall ownership proposition. Finally, a family hatchback with a Toyota badge that's class-competitive in almost every way. It's been a long time coming.

Take a trip to Kuga town

THE Ford Kuga is back – bigger and better than ever before. There's still no seven-seat option but with an extra 81mm of length and an additional 71 litres of carrying capacity, it's a far more practical proposition than before and just as good to drive.

The problem with the old Kuga wasn't that difficult to identify. It was just too small. For the amount of money you were paying – upwards of £21,000 – you weren't getting a whole lot of metal for your money. This was a sustainable strategy when the cheaper and larger Korean opposition were a bit of a joke but it was never going to last. And that, in a nutshell is the design brief for the latest Kuga. It's good looking, it drives well and it's got a bit more room inside for family duties.

Customers get to choose from two 1.6-litre turbocharged Ecoboost petrol units or two 2.0-litre turbodiesels. The petrol engines are rated at either 148bhp or 177bhp, both managing the same torque figure of 240Nm. The entry-level petrol model is available in front-wheel drive guise with a manual gearbox, but the 177bhp version is sold exclusively as an all-wheel drive chassis with the Powershift automatic gearbox. Go diesel and there's a 138bhp unit, expected to be the volume seller, generating 320Nm of torque and a range-topping 161bhp lump that cranks out a hefty 340Nm. This engine is strong in a comparatively broad band between 1500 to 4000rpm.

All Kuga models get a quick and well-weighted electrically assisted steering system, although the strong self-centring action takes a little getting used to. Although Ford's engineers deny it, the chassis of this model feels softer than the first generation car, so the ride is better, but there's not that same puppyish attitude as before.

The four-wheel drive system lends the Kuga a modicum of off-road ability but it comes into its own on road when pedalling the car quite hard. The torque vectoring control system reduces the sort of understeer you'd expect in a car of this type and sniffs out grip extremely well, shutting drive between front and rear axles far more adeptly than, say, the Haldex system used extensively in Volkswagen group products. Drive a bit more sedately and you'll be impressed by the Kuga's ride quality and refinement. It can do the sporty thing but feels happiest when wafting. We'll take that.

The styling of the latest Kuga utilises an evolutionary look. Even if you'd never seen one before, the shape of the windows, the headlights and the rising belt line is all quite similar to its predecessor, which is no bad thing as that car was always one of the best-looking models in its class. As before, it's based on Focus underpinnings, but this one has a much larger task ahead of it. Ford's global policy is to reduce the number of different vehicle platforms across its portfolio, so this car not only has to replace the old Kuga in the UK and Europe, but it also has to replace the bigger Escape in the US. Just looking at its build process hints at Ford's big picture. The chassis is built in Cologne, the powertrain in Dagenham and the upper body and interior in Detroit. Escapes are built in Louisville, America, and final assembly for Kugas is in Valencia, Spain.

There's decent headroom, despite the car being 8mm lower than before. Rear legroom is good too; certainly better than you'd get in a five-door Focus – quite an achievement given the need to package the all-wheel drive mechanicals. The rear seats also recline at the pull of a handle.

The new car's additional length is largely accounted for by luggage space. The old car had 410-litres of space available but even with the rear seats in their fully reclined position, there's 438-litres in the latest car. Put the seats to a more upright position and you get up to 481-litres.

Ford did well with the old Kuga, shifting more than 45,000 first generation models in UK since 2008. Like its predecessor, the MK2 version will feature a three-spoke line-up in the UK – Zetec, Titanium and Titanium X.

The 2.0-litre TDCi 161bhp model in Titanium trim, at around £25,500, is over £350 less than the old model, with standard equipment – including fold-flat seats, reclining rear seats, an adjustable load floor, Ford SYNC with Audible Text Messaging and Emergency Assist, a Visual AWD Monitor, Electronic Power Assisted Steering, Hill Start Assist and enhanced Cruise Control with an Active Speed Limiter.

Celebrating 20 years in business

Glyn Hopkin are one of the UK's largest and most successful automotive dealer groups and have reached a significant milestone as they celebrate 20 years in business.

January 1993 saw the opening of their very first dealership, Nissan in Romford, Essex.

Since then, the company have gone from strength to strength enjoying considerable growth and success, forging many, new manufacturer partnerships along the way.

Today, their group consists of a staggering 25 dealerships representing 8 exciting brands, put into perspective, that's growth of over 1 brand new dealership every year.

Fraser Cohen, Managing Director of Glyn Hopkin who has been with the company from the start said 'We are extremely proud to be celebrating this major achievement. From the very beginning our main focus has been complete customer care and total satisfaction and we believe this has played a major part in our continued success. A huge thanks to all those past and present customers which is now in excess of 150,000 individuals'.

The group have also enjoyed a number of awards along the way in recognition of their customer satisfaction scores for both Sales and Aftersales.

Recent awards include, 'Nissan Dealer Group of the Year', regarded as the Oscars of the Nissan industry, several 'Best Customer Quality Retailer of the Year' awards and a vast array of staff awards.

It's not just all of their customers that Glyn Hopkin care about. From an initial team of 23, today they employ over 550 staff. The Board of Directors have worked together for over 15 years, all sharing the same vision and beliefs.

More than 240 members of staff have been with the business for over 5 years and over 100 for more than 10 years. There are always opportunities for promotion within the business and there are many, loyal individuals who deserve a special mention. Fraser Cohen said 'Our staff are the backbone of our business. Without them, we would not have enjoyed such incredible growth and success'.

They continually train and develop all staff to improve service and quality levels and believe investing in the best people with the right attitude and commitment is key to exceeding customer expectations and needs.

If you are thinking of buying a Brand New 13 reg, nearly new or used vehicle or looking for vehicle servicing, parts or accessories, you couldn't ask for a better company to do business with.

VANWISE GROUP - HARLOW OPEN DAY - FRIDAY 15TH FEBRUARY

Vanwise Harlow is holding a special Open Day on Friday February 15th offering you an excellent opportunity to check out the vast range of vans displayed. Refreshments will be available throughout the day and all visitors on the 15th February will be entered into a FREE prize draw to win thrilling prizes.

Amongst those prizes is a pair of entry tickets to an exciting event at Brands Hatch racing circuit in Kent. The company's friendly sales team are ready to provide you with some amazing deals on vans specially arranged for the Open Day itself.

If you decide to purchase a van within three months of attending the Open Day on the 15th February, Vanwise will donate £50 from the sale to a well-known local charity. What's more, during February, Vanwise has a trio of offers which include 0% finance, or a minimum part exchange deal of £750, or a free 2-year vehicle service pack with every van purchase.

When it comes to choosing a van few retailers offer more choice and variety of vans in different formats and sizes than Vanwise. They've been selling, hiring and maintaining light commercial vehicles successfully for the past ten years.

Vanwise offers an exceptionally wide and varied selection of vans to match all possible requirements encompassing every aspect of the market. These range from small car-based models and compact vans to short, medium and long-wheel based panel vans, minibuses and crew cabs, tippers, fridge/freezer vans, Lutons with or without tail lifts, curtain sliders, dropside commercials, light trucks up to a weight of 3.5 tonnes and welfare vehicles.

In fact, if it's not in stock, the experienced team at Vanwise Harlow can source it to order to match specific customer requirements through their many trusted contacts.

Vanwise Harlow is part of the fast-growing Vanwise Group which has recently opened a new dealership in Maidstone, Kent. The company's competitive pricing policy continues to bring in vast amounts of business along with the fact that every vehicle offered by Vanwise will have been well maintained during their time on the road.

All vans are fastidiously prepared and every nearly new vehicle is sold with its manufacturer warranty, while those outside this period are covered by reassuring warranties, with extended cover being available. Part exchange deals are welcome and a range of flexible, cost effective finance options can be arranged to match your requirements and the needs of your business, too.

Whether you need to buy, hire, maintain or repair a van, Vanwise Group is the one-stop-shop for all things relating to light commercial vehicles. Why not drop by during their Open Day on Friday February 15th February to find out more and to see Harlow's best selection of used and nearly-new vans.

Scrap

End of the road
for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Defender arrives in nick of time

Chapman said: "We need experienced players who know how to win football games. Lee Gledhill is a natural leader and will tell players what to do.

"That will help as a lot has fallen on Danny Brown's shoulders this season." He added: "Johnny was also at Stevenage. He can play in central defence and at right back."

Gledhill's arrival should compensate for the injury-jinxed defender Donny Barnard who has quit football this season.

Chapman explained: "We sat down last week. He has had problems with his groin and cartilage and he will rest for the rest of the season.

"It is not helping him or us for him to keep coming back and being injured."

Chapman said he is looking for a left-sided player after Jordan Gill left to go to Ware and Joe O'Donoghue picked up an ankle injury at Maldon.

Harlow's boss is also on the hunt for a new striker.

Scott Williams, who had only recently come back from knee injury, went off with a shoulder injury against Maldon. Chapman said: "Scott will be out for the foreseeable future and I am looking for a new forward."

Clarke Akers was on the bench for the Maldon game because of a knee injury but is expected to be fit against Tilbury at home this Saturday.

Midfielder Stanley Muguo is also expected to return following a hamstring injury.

"I will be looking for a reaction from my players," said Chapman.

The scheduled home game against Grays Athletic on Tuesday was postponed because of the snowy conditions. It has been rearranged for Tuesday April 9.

Cobras march on to Essex last 4

SUMNERS U-11 Cobras progressed to the last four of the Essex County Cup with a 1-0 win over Hawkwell Athletic Falcons in a tight encounter at Passmores.

The Southend & District Junior Sunday League side were on the back foot as striker Joss Almond went inches wide of opening the scoring for Cobras.

After the break, Summers' half-time subs Jake Wildman and Harry Bannister combined with the latter breaking free only to see the Hawkwell keeper save bravely at his feet.

Harry Jones and a header from Bannister went just wide.

With extra time looming a piece of magic arrived from Archie Savage's left boot. After some very good build-up play he controlled Reece Howe's pass and unleashed a sweet strike from 25 yards that flew into the top corner.

With only enough time for the visitors to take the restart this was enough to see Summers into the semi-final.

Stanley Mulkome was player-of-the-match.

Cobras are of the only Harlow team to do well in an Essex County Cup competition.

Last week Alemite Athletic Youth Red reaped the last four with a 5-4 penalty shoot-out win against Beacon Hill Rovers Soparans.

The match, played at Alemite, was 1-1 after extra time.

Rowan shows class for Essex title

PERRY Rowan showed his class to win the 2013 Essex Indoor U-17 boys 800m title at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre.

It was the first ever indoor race for the 16-year-old Burnt Mill School student, who registered a personal best (PB) of 2 mins 9 secs.

Kyesha Robinson (11), also from Burnt Mill School, came 2nd in 2 mins 37.7 and gained the silver medal in the U-13 girls 800m.

Kyesha made a strong break 400metres out but was unable to hold off Becca Brown from Havering who took the gold.

Twelve-year-old Mark Hall student Brandon Shibbourn registered a PB of 7.87s when he came third in the U-15 boys 60m.

Kyesha and her Burnt Mill School colleague Megan Caswell came 5th and 11th respectively in a 2.2km race to earn their first county vests.

The Essex schools event at Hylands Park in Chelmsford covered races for Year 7 and 8 girls and boys.

Eleven-year-old St Nicholas School student Mia Hiron has qualified for the ISA (Independent School Association) National Cross Country Championships at Rugby in Warwickshire on Saturday March 2.

She booked her spot after coming 5th in an U-14 2.5km race last Wednesday.

Harryman's double celebration

EXCITING sprinter Naomi Harryman has a double reason for celebration.

The 14-year-old Harlow Athletic Club member has registered an excellent achievement after qualifying for the All England Indoor Championships in Birmingham on Feb 23-24.

Harryman booked her spot after producing a couple of fantastic personal bests (PBs) at the London Indoor Games.

She ran 8.3 seconds in the 60m flat and 9.5 seconds in the 60m hurdles at the Lee Valley Athletic Centre in Picketts Lock.

This was her first meeting as an U-17 athlete competing against women nearly two years older than her.

Her PB for the 60m hurdles placed her 34th in the country for an U-17 sprinter.

Harryman later came sixth in the U-17 60m hurdles final at the Essex and Eastern Counties Indoor Championships.

Her time was a PB of 9.47s and she also leapt 1.35m in the women's high jump.

In the U-13s, Danny Sanderson, (11), took silver in the boys U-13 60m hurdles (11.65s).

After being crowned U-13 Essex Schools' cross-country champion, Lewis Harknett won gold in the U-13 boys 800m (2mins 34.72s).

Poppy Walton was third in the U-20 women's triple jump with a leap of 9.23m.

Harlow AC youth coach, Steve Lott, said: "The good form shown so early in the season is testimony to the hard work put in over the winter by athletes and coaches alike.

"I am so pleased that some of the potential I've spoken about previously has been unlocked.

We have other talented athletes who did not attend this weekend who, I hope, will now be inspired by their training partners."

Clapton leave it late for victory

A FANTASTIC late opportunist try from centre Scott Stalley gave Upper Clapton an exciting 13-12 home win over Billericay in Essex League division one.

Clapton were trailing 12-8 with a minute left in Saturday's clash when Stalley intercepted a pass and ran 60m beating the cover defence and scoring a try out wide.

Earlier, the visitors had gone 7-0 ahead on 20 minutes when a clever move resulted in a Billericay wing to score a try under the posts and this was converted.

Ross Stalley then missed two penalties before he scored an unconverted try just before the break.

Billericay stretched their lead on the hour mark.

A visitors' line-out close to the Clapton line resulted in a rolling maul from which Billericay scored an unconverted try.

Clapton trailed 12-5 but this deficit was cut by a 72nd-minute penalty by Ross Stalley.

It was then left to his brother Scott to snatch victory for Clapton.

Late try denies Rams

>>Cont'd from back which was converted.

Harlow came back with one of the best tries to have been seen at Ram Gorse for some time on 61 minutes.

Upminster kicked deep into the Harlow half when the ball was taken cleanly by full back Rob Mackie.

With a combination of speed and excellent running angles he beat two defenders before he dummied the Upminster full back beautifully to touch down under the posts.

Smith slotted the conversion and Harlow led 22-19 but they were the denied victory by the late visitors try.

Marathon effort from Kinney!

PHENOMENAL stamina and endurance were shown by Andy Kinney when he completed the 'Enigma Quadzilla Four Marathons in Four Days' event.

For four consecutive days, the Harlow Running Club member ran seven and a bit laps of Caldecotte Lake in Milton Keynes, Buckinghamshire.

Kinney did incredibly well to finish each race with fairly consistent times. On the first day he clocked five hours, 9 mins 35 secs to come 54th out of 63 finishers.

This was followed by times of 5:22.24 (49th from 60 runners), 5:15.44 (54th) and 5:31.41 (58th) on the second, third and fourth days.

The first two days were sunny and bright before it changed to sleet on the third day and the final one was marked by very wet and windy conditions.

Jared Bethell was the first Harlow Running Club member to complete the Great Bentley Half Marathon near Colchester on Sunday. He clocked 1:17.07 and was 10th of 605 finishers.

Bethwell was followed home by fellow Harlow runner Jamie Jephcott who came 120th in 1hr 32min 51sec.

This was a superb time considering Jephcott ran a 50-mile race the previous weekend.

Harlow's first lady finisher was Dionne Jones.

She clocked a fantastic PB (personal best) of 1:33.25, which was also a new HRC Vet 40 record.

Debutant half marathon runner Will Wall was 152nd in 1:36.06 coming in shortly before John Tennant (175th, 1:38.02, 3rd vet 60).

Seventeen-year-old Daniel Jephcott finished in 221st position in his debut at the distance in a superb time of 1:41.31 to set a new HRC U20 record.

Other Harlow RC results: Great Bentley Half Marathon - Colin Moody 1:41.35, 224th; Sharon Wright 1:43.54, 261st; Claire Russell 1:43.54 PB, 262nd; Matthew Jones 1:47.51, 318th; Janice Page 1:47.52, 321st; Martin McColgan 1:50.47, 370th; David Page 1:57.14, 447th; Reshma Bassi 601st, 2:31.25 debutant.

Folksworth 15-mile race John Bull 1:54.24, 112th from 380 finishers; Graham Saville 2:09.55, 230th. Metropolitan League Cross Country 5-mile race at Hillingdon Steve Murtagh 33.21, 56th from 288 finishers.

Gunpowder Park 5km run at Waltham Abbey: Frank Heinen 23.42, 14th from 62 finishers; Robin Lozeau 24.24 (PB), 20th.

Side in a flap as Cats produce final flourish

HARLOW HAWKS 64, CAMBRIDGE CATS 91 HERTS BASKETBALL LEAGUE, DIVISION ONE

HARLOW Hawks were put to the sword in the final stages by high-flying Cambridge Cats as their season of struggle continued.

The hosts started well with Russ Allan slashing to the basket for a couple of scores and Rimantas Norkeliunas also scoring well.

Cats began to find easy scores either by leaking out for fast break points or working their offence which resulted in inside scores.

Player-coach Shab Niaz made a couple of changes as Lee Jones and Nicholas Moss stepped off the bench with instant impact; Jones finishing a smart play and Moss knocking down a three-pointer.

A couple of late scores for Cats meant they extended their lead at the end of the first period with the scores 23-13 in favour of the visitors.

The second period was much of the same as the Hawks struggled to score with any consistency.

Moss attacked the basket with success and Roan Lenihan backed up from three-point land.

After that the home side had a rough four minutes when they struggled to trouble the score board.

Cats headed into the half-time break up 42-25.

Hawks managed to find their scoring touch in the third with S. Niaz draining four three-pointers in the quarter.

T. White, promoted from the second team, provided some good team play off the bench, finishing a number of plays and rebounding well.

But defensively, the Hawks struggled and Cats were 64-46 ahead going into the last quarter.

Hawks then came out firing on all cylinders as Jones ran the floor and Niaz delivered the killer passes, another couple of scores from Moss and the Hawks had reduced the deficit to 11 with seven minutes remaining.

The Cats then went on a mini blitz to end any hope of a Hawks come back, running out comfortable winners 91-64.

HARLOW HAWKS: S. Niaz (18pts), Moss (12pts), Jones (10pts), Allan (10pts) Norkeliunas (4pts), White (4pts), Lenihan (3pts), Spashett (3pts) Burgess, Stonehouse.

Penguins secure promotion

HARLOW Penguins swimmers were celebrating after they achieved promotion from London division three of the Arena National Swimming League.

The league had three rounds which consisted of 16 clubs in the London area and Harlow came second.

Harlow went into round three at Borehamwood in second place.

Skipped by the boys team captain Kyle Panton and girls team captain Jasmine Hind, Harlow put in a fantastic performance.

They eventually finished third, behind Borough of Harrow A and Enfield swim squad B.

From the points gained over the three rounds this was enough to give Harlow the second spot overall and they were promoted along with league winners Harrow A.

Next season, Harlow Penguins will meet Bishop's Stortford in division two, who were relegated from division one.

A Harlow Penguins spokesman said: "This is a fantastic achievement by Harlow in what is only its second year back in the tournament, having finished 11th overall in 2011.

"With swimmers competing from age ranges 10 years to open category it really required a full team effort to pull out something special."

Final league positions:- 1. Borough of Harrow A 52 points; 2. Harlow Penguins 48; 3. Enfield Swim Squad 45; 4. Southwark Aquatics 42; 5. Brompton 41; 6. Barking & Dagenham 40; 7. Bethnal Green Sharks 34; 8. Cheshunt 33; 9. Hackney Aquatics 23; 10. Tring 22; 11. Bushey 19; 12. Verulam 16; 13. Ware 13; 14. London Borough of Hounslow 8; 15. Borough of Harrow B; 7; 16. Brent Dolphins 3.

Awesome foursome for Harlow

HARLOW recorded a 4-0 home victory over Brentwood in division four south east of the East Men's Hockey League.

Stuart Kirk doubled the advantage from open play five minutes before half-time.

Smith netted his second from a penalty flick on 60 minutes which was awarded for a foot infringement.

Kirk rounded off the scoring when he beat the keeper in a one-one just before the end for his second.

Meanwhile, in the Essex Women's Hockey League premier division, Harlow defeated Wapping III 3-0.

Veteran Charlotte Byers grabbed a brace as Harlow gained a good away win.

The goalless first half on Saturday was even with both sides squandering chances.

Chambers suffered an injury, but because Harlow only had 11 players she continued.

Harlow went ahead from a well-constructed goal converted by Byers from a few yards out.

The visitors doubled their lead when Byers fired a Turner cross from the right into the left corner.

Humiliation for Hawks in 9-1 loss

A MISERABLE weekend ended with possibly Harlow Town's worst ever league defeat as they lost 9-1 this afternoon (Saturday February 9).

Division one north leaders Maldon & Tiptree United cut the Hawks to pieces.

Harlow, who suffered a 10-points deduction for financial irregularities concerning the CVA (Compulsory Voluntary Agreement) they entered into three seasons ago to pay off their creditors and halt liquidation, were totally outclassed by a rampant Maldon side.

Incredibly Harlow only lost the corresponding fixture at Barrows Farm 1-0 a short time ago – and should have won that day.

But Terry Spillane's side – who included new signing Eddie Hart – were just too good this time around and this result is a shattering psychological blow to Harlow's chances of staying in the Ryman League.

Chris Bryan opened the scoring after only three minutes.

Ex-Hawk Lewis Dark volleyed in the second on 17 minutes and Glen Golby's header made it 3-0 on 34 minutes.

James Robinson hit a hat-trick with goals on 44, 47 and 57 minutes.

Joe Gardner scored the hosts seventh goal.

Hawks sub Clark Akers scored a consolation on 74 minutes, but Maldon hit two more through ex-Canvey star Hart on 77 minutes and then in stoppage time to complete a humiliating afternoon for the visitors.

This result surely ramps up the pressure on boss Danny Chapman, who has struggled to field a successful side this term on the back of financial cut backs by the club owners Platinum Sports Management.

Chapman played new signings Ben Brown and Luke Gumble but Akers was surprisingly dropped to the bench.

The Hawks boss will have to some how lift his troops or the club could be playing in the Essex Senior League next term.

Chapman said: "I would like to apologise to the fans who came to Maldon. I thank them for their support and without them things would get worse."

"We gave up and that is not acceptable. You could see it in the body language of the players when they went 2-0 up."

He added: "Maldon were better in every department but you should not lose by that much. I would not mind if the players had given it everything they have got."

"I have never [previously] been involved in anything like that as a player or manager."

HARLOW TN: Bossu, Gumble, O'Donoghue (Asamoah 85), Akande, D. Brown, B. Brown, Hart, Williams (Akers 40), Duru, Wixon, Das. Subs: Tamai.

Swimmers' top win in Essex gala

SWIMMING

The Penguins got 206 points and were 55.5 and 58.5 points respectively ahead of 2nd-placed Barking & Dagenham (150.5) and 3rd-placed Epping (147.5).

Dunmow Atlantis were 4th with 139 points and Hornchurch were last with 83.

The dominance of the Penguins was such that the clubs swimmers won 22 of the 49 events and came 2nd in another 20 events.

There were also 16 personal bests (PBs) in the 32 individual events.

The boys 15 & Under squad of Tomas Stevens, Charlie Stevens, Joel Chan and Mason Arnold stood out winning all six events in their age group.

FORMER CO-OWNER REFLECTS ON THE TIME HARLOW TOWN FC WENT BUST

By ALAN SCOTT
Sports Editor
alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

CYNICS might say that only madmen and multi-millionaires take over at football clubs.

Businessman Alan Howick is neither of those yet if he had the benefit of hindsight he would undoubtedly have pulled the plug on his ambitious plans for Harlow Town Football Club more than 20 years ago.

To say he got his fingers burnt is an understatement!

Howick (64), co-owner of Harlow-based estate agents Howick & Brooker, endured an ill-fated time at the helm which went on to leave him with £800,000 debts and the loss of the dream six-bedroom family home he had had built in Old Harlow.

It was under the stewardship of Howick and club co-owner Steve Allan that the proverbial muck hit the fan and it ended with the club – then known as the Owls – being suspended from competitive football by the FA in the 1992-93 season.

The club were managed by Dave Edwards at the time and had reached the first round of the FA Cup in the 1991-92 season before losing to Peterborough United.

But Howick believes it could have been so different if Harlow Council's planning committee had not stalled on a £3million scheme to move the club to a site on the Pinnacles in Roydon Road which is now home to Harlow Greyhound Stadium.

Planning officers were happy with the project which was the brainchild of Howick and Allen, but the council's planning committee, led by then chairman Richard Howitt – now a Labour MEP – were not happy and rejected the proposal initially.

The Isthmian League club had the backing of brewery Watney Truman, who had agreed to loan the club £500,000 to build the new stadium.

Howick and Allen had already paid £500,000 to buy the 10-acre site, once the home of Johnson Mathey, and submitted a scheme for a stadium with a main stand, a pub and a bowling alley.

The timing was crucial as it was near the end of the 1980s and shortly before the commercial property market crashed.

The council did eventually approve permission in October 1990, but by this time the whole property market was in meltdown it was no longer financially viable.

The project was due to be completed in May 1991 and although some work was carried out at the site, including the construction of a main stand which was funded by Howick and Allan, the money dried up and it eventually bit the dust.

Howick explained: "We finally got planning granted on a second application but it was too late. The top price now for the commercial scheme was £2.5m, leaving half a million shortfall. We built the pub and football pitch and started main stand but ran out of monies."

Howick is certainly bitter about that time.

Certainly he and Allan were seen as the villains of the piece as the club's debts built up over the next couple of years and eventually went bust.

"I feel bitter towards the council for their delaying tactics. It was a big ego trip but it all blew up in my face."

The season 'Owls' fans will never, ever forget

TOUGH TIMES: Estate agent co-owner Alan Howick, top, now the president of Harlow Cricket Club, remembers the difficult times when he was co-owner and chairman at Harlow Town Football Club

"Sad thing is, we WOULD have been successful with the project," he fumed.

Whitbread later bought Watney Truman and axed the agreed monies which had been allocated as a £500,000 loan to the club to pay for the project.

"Whitbread did not like football club schemes and refused an increase of the loan and pulled out – and shut us down. They had their fingers burnt before by another club.

"We continued to play football at the Sportcentre with considerable financial difficulty, but the second or third month into [the 1991-92 season] we withdrew all football wages." In March 1992, the club were prevented from playing at the Sportcentre by the FA due to problems with the ground.

Harlow played the rest of their games that season at neighbouring Bishop's Stortford FC.

Whitbread had also demanded the club settle its tab and asked Howick for £100,000.

Finally with surging debts the club shut down and pulled out of the Isthmian League.

Howick, chairman at the time, explained: "It was time to give in at the end of that season and pull the shutters down on HTFC. The ground was snatched back by Whitbread who sold it on for less than we wanted to top up the scheme to finish off and they lost the best part of £300k.

"Poor business sense by them, spiteful in our view. We could have finished off the scheme and the brewery would have a first charge on a leisure site with football, ten pin bowling and a public house. Plus two bars plus facilities within the main building designed for conferences, functions and a permanent base for the football supporters and social club.

"The rest as they say is history, loads of bad press, recriminations, sold up family home and moved on in life."

But Howick rebuilt his career and his life, and he certainly does not envy the job of Platinum Sports Management, now owners of Harlow Town FC as they come to grips with the unenviable task of running a football club.

Howick joked: "Twenty years later I'm still being asked 'how's the football club getting on then?'"

"Since my departure from HTFC, over the last twenty years, I have met with a future and past club chairman of HTFC along with someone else who was thinking of taking over a neighbouring senior club and I gave the two pending chairmen both the same advice: 'Don't bother, it's ego sapping and no one has enough money to play the expensive game of non-League football and win. They both ignored me!

"As someone once said, the best way to be a millionaire is to be a multi-millionaire and buy a football club!"

'So sad I fell out with my pal Edwards'

ONE of the saddest episodes of Alan Howick's time as co-owner at Harlow Town Football Club was the break-up of his friendship with then manager Dave Edwards, pictured above.

Edwards, one of Harlow's greatest managers, had fashioned an exciting side in the late 1980s with the likes of strikers Paul Battram and midfielder Richard Head.

The collapse of the club due to massive financial difficulties came with Edwards' team in the midst of a great FA Cup run.

The run had only just started when Howick and co-owner Steve Allan could no longer afford to pay the players.

It is with great credit that Edwards' players carried on playing, showing tremendous loyalty.

They were repaid as the club reached the first round for the first time since the 1981-82 season, before losing to Peterborough United, then in the old third division.

Peterborough, who won the tie 7-0, had knocked Liverpool out of the League Cup that season and finished 6th in the league.

Howick and Allan let the players share the monies raised through the Cup run.

"Steve and I were not very popular but we got on with it and Edwards kept most of the team together on a shoestring and we got to the first round of the FA Cup!" explained Howick.

"We were knocked out by Peterborough but it was a day out. We gave the gate monies due to the players. Dave [Edwards] worked his butt off."

Edwards is now battling Alzheimer's. Howick had known him since childhood.

Howick concluded: "Regrets, a few, falling out with the manager and close friend Dave Edwards and co-director and the late John Sewell [former chairman]. "My family went through hell with the rumours as well as moving house.

"Although, a couple of years ago Dave did come up to me privately to say 'sorry, I didn't fully appreciate what you went through'."

"That was music to my ears as I was and have always been very fond of Dave; I'm only saddened by his illness."

RFU LONDON & SE,
DIVISION THREE NORTH EAST

THE Rams were on the cusp of a home victory before a late converted try by Upminster denied them on Saturday.

Harlow were leading 22-19 in the 77th minute and from a scrum close to the home line, the ball skidded out and an Upminster player reacted quickest to touch down.

An exciting finish saw the hosts attack strongly but they were resisted despite Upminster having a player sin-binned for a loose play offence.

Harlow had to settle for a bonus point for not losing by more than seven points and remain eighth in the table.

Earlier, the hosts went ahead through a Danny Smith penalty.

Shortly after, a good Upminster attack split the Rams defence for a try in the corner that was converted.

Harlow scored their first try on 35 minutes. A slick attacking move ended with winger Chris Webb touching down in the corner giving Harlow an 8-7 lead.

Upminster hit back almost immediately with another breakout from their backs, exposing Harlow's defensive weaknesses as they touched down for an unconverted try.

Upminster led 12-8 at the break.

Six minutes into the second half, centre Luke Bowering crashed over for a try converted by Smith.

The contest's fluctuating nature continued as Upminster scored their third try on 51 minutes.

Boon, bust and Hawks meltdown

The Star looks back at the 1992 collapse of HTFC

REMEMBERING DARK DAYS: Businessman Alan Howick, former co-owner of Harlow Town Football Club

THE news last week that Harlow Town FC have been hit by a 10-point deduction for financial reasons, will have been met by a wry smile from Alan Howick, who was co-owner at the club when the Hawks went bust 20 years ago and were thrown out of the league.

The well-known Harlow businessman knows how difficult it is to run a football club.

Not a single competitive match was played in the 1992-93 campaign as mounting debts forced Howick and co-owner Steve Allan to call time on the Isthmian League club.

It's a sad chapter in the life of Harlow Town FC that will never be forgotten.

Linked to a doomed stadium switch to the Pinnacles - now home to Harlow - Greyhound Stadium - Hawks' financial troubles became so bad after that that the money simply ran out, wages were withdrawn in the 1991-92 season and the club soon folded.

It was a rollercoaster ride but it could have been so different had the club got the planning permission in the 1980s they craved from Harlow Council for a £3million project to build a new football ground on the old Johnson Matthey site in the Pinnacles, which later was sold off cheaply.

The town council's planning committee went against the recommendations of its planning officers by initially refusing permission for the site.

Building work eventually started after planning permission was finally granted in October 1990.

By that stage Britain was in the grip of the worst residential and commercial property meltdown since the 1950s and the project was unsustainable, particularly after an agreed £500,000 loan from a major brewery chain was withdrawn.

From there the club went on a downward spiral as the bills mounted and Howick, co-owner of Old Harlow-based estate agents Howick & Brooker, was left with £800,000 of debts and forced to sell his family home in Old Harlow.

Twenty years after he quit the club, Howick spoke to Star Sports Editor Alan Scott about that dramatic time.

RETURN: Lee Gledhill, in action for Harlow last season, has returned (HSP0887719)

Defender returns in the nick of time

UNDER-fire Hawks boss Danny Chapman has swooped for defender Lee Gledhill to shore up his defence - and vowed that he will NOT leave unless he is sacked.

The spotlight turned on the Harlow Town manager after his team slumped to a humiliating 9-1 defeat at leaders Maldon Town five days ago.

In light of this, Chapman has brought police officer Geldhill back to the club. He quit last season but has returned after spells at Met Police and Folkestone Invicta. Gledhill is a good reader of the game and will be a steadying influence.

Chapman's team are in danger of being relegated from Ryman League division one north and results need to improve.

Chapman told the Star yesterday: "I will not quit. I am not a quitter. The only way I will go is if the owners turned round and said they wanted to change."

"It has not been easy this season and I want to make things better. We will avoid relegation."

He added: "Now would not be a good time to go. A new manager would come in and bring in new players."

The other new player is Johnny Butler who
